In The Feminine Whirl At the Beach

STRAIGHT From the SHOULDER FOOD FOR THOUGHT

..... Fashion, That Is!

By ALICE BREWER WHITE
Woman's Fashion Editor

With that second cup of coffee, listen to the Women's World 7-9-30 a.m. Monday days through Saturdays, WTAR, for Mrs. White's chatter about the latest fall fashions, homemaking tips, club and civic events and especially transcribed interviews with New York personalities.

Last year 125,000,000 feed, flour, and fertilizer bags made of gay cotton dress print material were quickly snapped up by economy-minded, style-conscious homemakers who clamored for more! The reason is obvious—with three or four bags, a woman can fashion a smart and thrifty dress for herself, wearing apparel for the entire family, or make accessories for the home.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30—Friday, September 5—on the stage of the Seaside Park ballroom, there will be a good example of why homemakers are looking again this year to cotton bags for feedstuffs and fashion in the same package! Local and Princess Anne County homemakers will model these special fashions.

The basic characteristics of this traditional sewing practice assure its continuance in American homemaking.

First, sewing with cotton bags is fashionable. I think you'll agree after seeing the show tomorrow that cotton bag prints are prettier than ever! There are smart stripes, plaids, florals, checks, modern designs, polka dots, and conversational prints adaptable to a host of sewing needs.

Plain bags, like prints, have many sewing uses for wardrobe and home. Water for the white bags in tomorrow's show which were dyed in fashionable colors for various patterns. You'll love them!

Furthermore, cotton bag sewing is thrifty. Though you may have been buying farm commodities in cotton bags and sewing with them for years, it is possible that you have never fully realized the bargain you are getting.

People, Places, Stuff . . . and Things

By ALISBEE

PEOPLE: Katherine Hepburn's personality piece in Time magazine tickled me! Especially the leadoff description of Katie: "Her body suggests a collection of fine bones held together by freckles!" (Never you mind, Katie, I'll bet your bank account is away up there in comparison to that of the smartie who writes for Time) . . . Bill Kellam and Bill Eaton, those entrepreneurial insurance men, have certainly rung the four-star bell with that informative give-away booklet titled "Presidential Elections." My hat's off to those two! I couldn't have been happier when I found a copy in my mail box. It contains a wealth of information about Presidential Elections such as the history of same, all of which we American people, have written down through the years. The biographical outline of our past Presidents saved me a lot of research. Beg, borrow or steal one and bone up for the you-must-vote season near here! . . . Mrs. George Wadsworth, Jr., lovely blonde ex-drama teacher at Maury, while teaching dramatic studies privately at the Mayflower, ought to be a good bet for a lead in the Virginia Beach Little Theatre group—and I don't mean a bit part! . . . Gov. and Mrs. John S. Battle are going along on the third Virginia Cruise to the Caribbean, come January 7, and will add impetus to the interest of the cruisers. They will be the White House's first out-of-town with these cruises as the Legislature was in session before. However, Mrs. Battle was a delightful passenger on the first one. (Your Alisbee is going along this time to represent WTAR, with recorder and movie camera—and no hat!) Life magazine says that Ernest Hemingway "is unquestionably one of the major writers of the 20th Century," well, maybe so! But I did find it a pretty actionless story, his new "Old Man and the Sea." Mr. Archer craved jet fire engines tearing about, red planes zooming overhead and my daily tear-out for the Norfolk bus at the last possible second each morning!

Small Pets and Tiny Tots Fashion At the Fair

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the small pet animal show will hold forth at the Princess Anne County Fair. This will be followed by a back-to-school tiny tots fashion parade coordinated by Mary Tobin and presenting Tobin's fashions for the small fry. There will be gay balloons for all and special gift awards for the lucky tots who attend. This should be an event that all mothers will be glad to attend for busy mothers relax while watching the youngsters' fun.

In a recent issue of Horticulture, there was a most informative article on the Madonna lily, giving its full historical background, written by Alan McNeil. The story of the Madonna lily is one of the most interesting of all the flower histories, for it dates back to the dawn of history and the days when it was treasured not only for its beauty but because it was an important food item, believe it or not!

Mr. McNeil writes that the capital of the Elamite Kingdom, dating back to earlier than 2500 B. C., was called Susa, meaning "City of Lilies," and that Susa lilies traveled thousands of miles over mountains, deserts, rivers and seas. They were carried along the trade routes, possibly by nomad tribes who planted bulbs and in moving left behind scales or bulbs which in time spread, making the Madonna lily a "native" of the land. It possibly originated in the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates.

Following the lily's history forward, we are told that it seems to have made its entry into Egypt much earlier than Jacob and his sons, and that a bulb buried in a mummy case is still intact in the Louvre! It was known to Homer and to the citizens of Greece, Crete and Italy, and this highly prized garden plant was also prized at the time of the Roman Empire by gardeners.

OVER 25,000 SOIL SAMPLES TESTED THIS YEAR AT VPI

The year ending July 1, 1952, was a peak year in the soil sample testing laboratories of VPI.

W. W. Lusk, agricultural VPI Agricultural Extension Service, says 25,594 soil samples from farms in 99 counties were tested during that period. He noted that 15,000 samples were tested during January, February, and March, with the high for any one month in March, 5,100.

Leading the list were Rockingham County farmers who sent in 1,972 samples for soil testing.

Other top counties were: Loudoun, 1,900; Guilford, 1,800; Shenandoah, 1,700; Loudoun, 1,600; and Henrico, 1,500.

Lusk says it's time now to take samples from fields where alfalfa, peanuts, and full-season corn are to be grown, and will soon be time to take samples from pastures and other fields which are to be improved.

Testers usually have a check period in August, and can give quicker service.

Pointing up the need for a soil test, Lusk says alfalfa and ladino clover, for example, need an abundance of calcium plus the right soil acidity for best growth. Many soils

TOGETHER AGAIN A SHORT STORY

By Stephen B. Green

The ground was the culmination of many smaller quarrels. They had, in essence, decided that in evidence, no matter how they had given their minds, tonight it all came out in their reading minds.

"You've had your way ever since our marriage. Your pervasions have been a liability, a handicap. I've made the grade in spite of, not because of you."

"So that's the way you feel? After I've sacrificed and worked and tolerated your friends, simply so you could wrangle more business from them?"

"It is my friends who have tolerated you, my dear."

"You wretch!"

"Frankly, I see no good in going on. Our ways are not the same. We'll forever be at odds."

"Most any arrangement will be quite satisfactory to me. I'm quite at the end of my rope, putting up with your idiosyncrasies."

And so Janet had gone north and Noel had seen his lawyer.

Of course there had been a time when there were no quarrels. That was long ago, when Noel as a young real estate agent striving to make his place in the world had wooed and won the beautiful Janet.

There had been happiness then, in little white cottage with a garden fence and a garden out back. A sort of story-book happiness. They had been so very much in love, so contented to be alone and together.

It all seemed so long ago now, so very much in the past to Janet, almost unreal. They had forged ahead, and Janet had helped. There were moments of discouragement, of failure, but in the end they had triumphed.

They had gone north during the Florida boom and invested everything they owned. Unwisely, Noel had foreseen the crash and anticipated it.

The first quarrel had occurred then, when Noel had wanted to go to California because he believed there was to be a hard boom there. She had gone with him, and he had lost his money, but from that day on the storm had raged.

In 1929 Noel displayed the same crazy foresight. He had sold out two days before the big crash.

Now they were rich, disgustingly rich—and unhappy.

Janet did not return to their Park Avenue apartment. She went on to Buffalo and from there to Ridgeway where the little white cottage was located. They had never sold it. It stood, somewhat dilapidated and overgrown with weeds, like a forlorn

THIS WEEK IN OPS

(A weekly summary of news in the office of Price Stabilization.)

1. Price Ceiling
The Office of Price Stabilization announces that manufacturers of mixed fertilizers will be permitted to increase their ceiling prices so as to reflect freight rate increases authorized by Federal or state regulatory bodies.

Janet had the place cleaned and the weeds cut down and the garden planted. They had painters begin brightening the outside and laborers patch up the fence. This occupied her thoughts and her time for a fortnight. Or did it?

When the last of the workmen had done Janet sat by the window of her (other) bedroom and stared out at the newly planted garden. Her mind came in to straighten the room.

"Emily," Janet said suddenly, "I can't stand it."

"My garden, ma'am?"

"I can't stand living here among all these memories."

"Yes, ma'am."

"We'll have to go away."

Emily's face brightened. "To New York, ma'am?"

Janet did not answer at once. When she spoke it was in a curiously broken whisper.

"I must have him back. I can't go on without him."

"Mr. Pierce, ma'am?"

"Emily, I must get him back somehow. Suddenly she stood up. "Send him a wire, Emily. Tell him I'm sick. Tell him I'm delirious and calling for him. Hurry, Emily. Send it at once."

Emily went out. A half hour later the telephone rang. It was the Western Union office. "A wire from St. Anne's hospital in Miami for Mrs. Noel Pierce. Husband seriously hurt in plane crash. Come at once."

Janet caught a plane at Buffalo for New York. In New York she changed for another going south. She reached Washington in the late afternoon and went into the landing field restaurant for a sandwich. She had 20 minutes before the plane left.

She sat on a stool, forgetting the sandwich on her plate, conscious only of a horrible fear, a dread, a resentment because of this slight delay.

"Janet!"

She turned. A man was standing at her elbow. She stared at him, swayed, caught herself.

"Noel!" she breathed. "I thought—the telegram—"

He looked at her gravely. "And I thought—your telegram—"

They stared. Understanding penetrated the chaos of their thoughts.

"I sent the wire to Ridgeway instead of Park Avenue. I thought you might go home. I knew if you had, that you'd come—when I needed you. It was there, when I needed you, you always came. And now—now I need you so very much more."

"Oh, my darling!" She was in his arms, and that was where she wanted to be, knowing that it was what he wanted, too.

The plane for the north left on the dot. Noel and Janet were its only passengers. They had bought up every other seat.

State regulatory bodies

In the case of producers whose ceiling prices have been adjusted in accordance with the Copeland Amendment, and the Price Agency, the new adjustments are based on freight cost increases since July 26, 1951, instead of April 1, 1951. Freight cost increases which occurred between these dates have been included in the Copeland adjustments, explains the Price Agency.

Price officials say the new adjustments are expected to result in an increase of approximately 3 per cent in the price farmers will have to pay for mixed fertilizers.

2. Price Agency Example
Small Mfg. Plants from Price Controls
OPS reports that small manufacturing plants doing not more than $25,000 business annually have been exempted from price controls.

The exemption applies, with certain exceptions, to manufacturers making products under the General Ceiling Price Regulation and Ceiling Price Regulation 22. The action, according to price officials, was taken to relieve small manufacturers of the burden of keeping records and otherwise complying with specified price regulations, as well as to lessen the administrative burden of greatly reduced OPS staffs.

practically inviting invasion by the North Koreans? Were the initial ones and deep freeze efforts indicative of "corruption"? Will anyone deny that fulfillment of the purposes of the Fair Deal would mean "bungling"? Is it "mismanagement" if our President is six years spends more in providing than all our other Presidents combined? And unless all the reports of curbing spending by various departments of the government are untrue, then surely waste has run riot for many years. The New and Fair Deal have certainly left the old Democratic party some questionable legacies!

It is sometimes clever political strategy to "lead from weakness." The governor has opened his attack just when the New Deal is most subject to criticism and has lost the Republicans to the start. This may be the Democrats' general approach, or they have already agreed to blame the Republicans for New Deal errors.

Before they get through, we may find that the Republicans started the first and second world wars and the Korean war; that Truman, Yalta and Potsdam were Republican mistakes, and that Lattimore is going to be Eisenhower's secretary of state if the general is elected. Well, you can convince the public of most anything if you talk long and loud enough. But the Democrats have got themselves a tough job this time.

come out with a statement weird enough to cause you in a sick moment to look upon your breakfast eggs as the yellow eyes of doom. The FCDA declares that the average American city would have to bury 40,000 dead within two days after one atomic bomb dropped upon it.

This estimate of thousands of corpses littering the streets after an air attack sounds grim even to funeral directors. The FCDA and city authorities are studying the problems and details of such a gruesome possibility.

There probably would be olive drab plastic sheets in which to wrap bodies. To obtain 40,000 caskets of wood or any other material would be impossible immediately. Military men look for an atomic attack at once if an enemy makes war against this country. Air Force Chief-of-Staff Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg says 70 per cent of any raiding force of planes probably will get past U. S. air defenses.

The dead of an air attack would have to be disinterred of 48 hours after death unless the city were in a cold or dry climate to prevent their being a health hazard. Such wholesale embalming would be out of the question. The first task would be to get the bodies out of sight so they would not destroy the morale of the living.

To permit survivors to file past the unidentified dead in hope of spotting their missing relatives would be impracticable. If 40,000 bodies were laid out in two rows, the side between them would be 20 miles long.

Use of Hormones In Sheep Breeding Undergoing Tests

Off-season breeding of sheep is being made possible on some Virginia farms by the use of certain hormones. George A. Allen, Jr., specialist at VPI, says several hormones have been developed and are being tested to aid in off-season breeding of ewes. A natural female hormone, E.C.P., and a synthetic hormone, delibestril, are the most widely used at present.

However, neither hormone has been tested long enough for general recommendations as to use. Allen says some research men feel that after ewes have been injected three or four times they will become more difficult to settle than before hormones were used.

He says that until more is known about the value of hormones, the sheepman probably would be wise to use them only on a part of the flock—especially on late lambers. Manufacturers' dosage instructions should be followed, and the injection made into the muscle after the area has been thoroughly disinfected.

Allen reports that several farmers in Virginia have injected ewes with E.C.P. this summer, and that from 90 to 100 per cent of the ewes have been settled within a few days.

Tests also are being conducted to determine the value of delibestril in increasing gains in feeder lambs. The results have varied considerably, but

Apple Harvesting Requires Much Care

Harvest apples when they are at the peak of their quality—and handle carefully to reduce bruising.

Fred Dreiling, associate horticulturist at VPI, says that picking apples is a specialized job, and one that becomes easier when the right techniques are used.

There is no work in the orchard which requires as much attention as does the picking, he states.

His suggestion to orchardists is that they show each picker the proper picking methods. "We can often raise a fine crop of apples only to lose the returns in improper harvesting practices," he explains. Detailed information on proper picking practices may be had from County Agents.

most have indicated that slight increases in gain and feed savings may be expected with slightly lower carcass grades. The tests also indicate that the hormone treatment is most valuable when used on low-grade or poor-doing lambs.

The following other department officers were re-appointed:

Holbach of Richmond, department secretary; Eldon James of Hampton, department judge advocate; Philip A. White of Richmond, department finance officer; Harry F. Feeder Pig Sales To Be Held Friday

Feeder pig sales, a relatively new marketing method in Virginia, are scheduled for tomorrow, September 5, in Danville, and October 5 in Gloucester.

George Herring, animal husbandman at VPI, says the feeder pig sales are planned somewhat like the now familiar and successful feeder calf sales. Committees of the counties taking part in the program inspect the pigs for quality and weight, and all pigs are treated for cholera, and otherwise checked as to health. All male pigs are castrated. At the stockyards, all pigs are sorted according to weight and quality.

Some 600 head have been consigned for the Danville event and 350 for expected at Gloucester.

All feeder pig sale held at Orange August 22, pigs ranging from 50 to 90 pounds sold mostly at $23 to $25 cwt. Most of the heavier pigs sold for $22 to $23 cwt. Top price, $26.25 per cwt., was brought by four Hampshire pigs averaging 59 pounds.

Ruritan National Directors Meet And Review Growth of Club

The progress of the expansion program for 1952 and a review of the financial condition of the organization were the highlights of the meeting of the board of directors of Ruritan National held at the Roanoke Hotel, Roanoke, on August 29 and 30.

In addition to the board meeting, there was a conference of the district governors. This conference included discussion of the 22 district conventions which will be held during the month of November and December, and a discussion of the District Governors' responsibility at the national convention, which will be held in Richmond in January.

Miss E. Godwin, Jr., president of the organization, reported to the board that 4 clubs had been organized in the first half of the Ruritan year; among these being two clubs in Maryland; four in Kentucky; three in Tennessee; three in Alabama; and three each in Mississippi and Florida. These states are considered the border states of the organization.

Mr. Godwin also pointed out that the organization was in the best financial position it has been for a number of years.

It was brought to the attention of the board that the membership of Ruritan had passed the 16,000 mark and that there are 429 active clubs in the 12 Southeastern states. The board also discussed expanding the Ruritan headquarters office building and the employment of additional personnel.

SCHOOL 'DAZE' AGAIN

VINDICATION PLUS

It required less than thirty minutes for Judge Burnette Miller, Jr., sitting in the Princess Anne County Circuit Court, on Tuesday, to dismiss the case brought against E. W. Smith, commissioner of the revenue for the City of Virginia Beach. Judge Miller heard the evidence as introduced and immediately concluded that there was no case against Mr. Smith, which was what these columns reported at the time the trumped-up charges were filed.

City Attorney Roy Smith was the only witness called in the brief, but decisive, case. His testimony relative to an ordinance calling for a $5000 fee to be charged "amusement parks" brought out the evidence that W. Russell Hatchett, while serving as town manager, proposed the ordinance which would, in effect, allow illegal operations. The city attorney testified that he held the second ordinance invalid and advised the commissioner of revenue to issue licenses under the original ordinance which called for a $1000 license fee for amusement parks. The subterfuge proposed by Hatchett in amending the original ordinance was, in the city attorney's opinion, a step which invalidated the second ordinance.

Judge Miller ruled that the commissioner of the revenue for the City of Virginia Beach displayed no action that could conceivably be construed as "misfeasance or malfeasance" and that, on the contrary, he acted wisely in seeking counsel from the city attorney in the matter. He inferred that Mr. Smith had displayed sound judgment in the conduct of his office.

The results of the case goes down as another in a long series of defeats for the die-hard political opposition in Virginia Beach. The faithful followers of the antis, the Hatchetts, the Simpsons, the McClanans, the Duns, the Fishers, the Davises, the Bells, the Braithwaites, and the rest of the small flock, were made to look foolish by the court in this case; but their campaign of "smear" will probably continue since they are constantly stirring up something with little regard for facts or a basis on which to stand.

Our congratulations to Mr. Smith, a conscientious and respected public official, who can and will perform efficiently for the taxpayers of Virginia Beach, despite efforts of minority groups to discredit his efforts and good name.

PRIVATE-ENTERPRISE SYSTEM BEST

Americans built a strong, productive country because they were free to utilize those resources under a private-enterprise system that was not hamstrung by bureaucratic restrictions on energy and ambition.—San Antonio, Texas, Southern Messenger.

HOW WELL OFF

Ross McLeod, Flinders Park, South Australia, was in a hospital with tuberculosis where he found there was an unwholesome honour attached to being a pretty bad case.

He says every time he thinks of it now it sickens him. But at the time he found a certain amount of glory in it, because he was one of the venerated ones. In the first place he had a year's start on most of the patients. In the second place both his lungs were affected; and he had a cough that shook the rafters and left him exhausted. For final measure, the germ had a grip on his throat and had temporarily taken his voice, and he was advised that unless he gave it complete rest by not talking at all, the larynx would be destroyed irrevocably.

One of those cheerful fellows who was forever giving the happy smile and bright word got on his nerves so much he began to detest the sight of him.

Then one day this chap found he had to be in a cradle for two years, and not allowed to move. The same day he got his bad news his only child was stricken with poliomyelitis, in a severe form.

As he was shifted out of the ward he broke into a smile and called, "Good luck chaps. Look after yourselves."

Ross says he lay staring at the doorway a long time. His eyes filled with tears of admiration. Then he said to himself, "My God, I've got trouble! But take a look at that guy. He's smiling!"

Suddenly it occurred to him how well off he was. He was in the best hands possible; his financial affairs were all right; his family was well, and at least he could move around in bed.

Immediately he relaxed. Worry and despair fell away like husks on a ripening almond. That week, for the first time, he held his weight. Gaining in hope and confidence, it was not long before he started to put on weight.

Though he didn't speak for two years, and spent three years in a sanatorium, he now has his voice and is able to work for a few hours each day. Some of those he envied and resented have never made the grade.

Across the Desk

An essay entitled "What The Weekly Newspaper Means To Me," written by a Walden, New York, high school girl, is worthy of editorial space in the nation's weeklies.

Here it is, in part:

"Biographies by the thousands adorn the shelves of our school and public libraries. Yet, unassuming, week after week a biography is related to us in installments. A weekly newspaper is to me the life story of a community recorded in 52 episodes each year. It is a factor which unites through common interest and without bigotry each and every reader. The facts disclosed in these journals may not be world-shaking, dynamic or sensational, but they are filled with the very essence of community life—births, deaths, and down-to-earth friendly chatter.

Thus to me, the weekly paper is a strong line which joins me to my fellow man. Its enlightening influence, truly the life blood of our community, makes me aware and appreciative of my neighbors. In weeklies, disasters and personal crises are aired, noticed, and remedied. Praiseworthy achievements, receiving publicity in newspaper often culminate in a real performance.

Our weekly would have little appeal outside our community, but in our locale the publishing date of our paper (and I mean our paper) is heralded with an air of pleasant anticipation.

"What does my newspaper mean to me? In order to fully appreciate the value... I imagine my life and the life of our community without its steady influence. We would be thrust into the very depths of ignorance, and a locality under these conditions would breed misunderstanding, intolerance, bigotry, and mass alarm.

"The sole cure of unitarity in a community will always be exposure of the truth, and the weekly newspaper is built on foundation of truth and service. My weekly newspaper to me means an exciting serial which inspires progress, good will, and widespread knowledge."

JUSTICE WITS A LUCK

From the Eufaula Tribune, Eufaula, Alabama:

When a Whitville, N. C., judge sentenced the leader of a night-rider gang to four years in prison for his part in a series of floggings, the law took a healthy swing at one of the most dangerous and subversive groups in America.

In addition to sentencing Thomas

E. Hamilton, a squatty ex-grocer, in four years, the North Carolina judge handed some of the same to sixty-two of his cohorts.

As usual, the Ku Klux Klan in that area was dedicated to lawlessness and anarchy with the natural result that citizens of entire counties spent nights of terror as floggings and night raids occurred month after month in the area. The story was the same as has been written in Alabama and other southern states in recent years, and the action of the judge and jury should prove the proper antidote just as it did in Alabama and Georgia not too long back.

The Small Farms Group to fight for a new tax base for one and two-man farms is in process of formation. It will also explore adequate replacement insurance for farmers.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"This one's on me, J. P.—you tore up the last one."

GRAND DUCHESS A SHORT STORY

Ann was a Czechoslovakian student. She had come to our college on a scholarship given by a national women's organization. My duties were not only to help her with English, but to acquaint her as much as

Cops Stop Good Drivers in Jawa

State police down in Georgia have caught a few law-abiding motorists. The officers thumb these good drivers to the curb and give them a good talking—but it is not the tongue lashing the drivers expect. Instead, it is part of the Georgia highway patrol's policy of stopping safe drivers and commending them on their highway manners.

Caught driving safely near Valdosta last week was Dawdie Dell's "champion greenhorn." Collard Green, vacationing in the southland with his wife, Blondine.

He was putting along in his 1930 Ford, not exceeding 25 m.p.h., driving on his side of the road, and veering off a straight line not one iota. Suddenly, the shrill whistle of a siren in his left ear forced him to ram his brake pedal to the floor. Neither Collard nor his brakes are as quick as they were in 1930.

possible with the American way of life. The day of an important examination she was late, but her blue eyes were shining when she slipped breathlessly into her seat.

I handed her the mimeographed list of questions. She glanced over them quickly, knowing, as I did, that she could not possibly answer them in the little time that was left.

"I will tell you. The next hour is first. To your office I can come. Okay?"

I consented, telling her to do as much of the test as she was able and to bring it with her. When she appeared, however, her mind was not on an examination. I have one question, please. In this town why does the bus not go to the depot? Ten blocks I have to walk."

It was true that in our small town the single bus ran only 20 blocks between Main street and the college. The depot was at the other end of town. I knew that Anna had been away the day before. Evidently she had returned on the morning train, which was due well before class time.

I gasped, "Why didn't you take a taxi?"

"Ah, that," she said, "is why I was late. You know I make a speech yesterday in Bremen?"

I nodded that I did. Though her English was a mixture of direct translation and slang picked up in the dormitory, it would be better to let her tell about her experience in her own way. I sat back to listen.

"Because of the scholarship, the club ladies are inviting me all over the state. I speak and speak. Mostly they are asking questions about Czechoslovakia, and I am saying what the saliva brings to the tongue. This week I was invited to Bremen—over three hundred miles away—this state is so big, Professor! And me—I am having midwinter exams. I write the ladies in Bremen I cannot come. It is not okay by them. They say they have ride in car for me over; they will send me back by train. I think I will study all night on train."

"Of money I am taking only small amount, two dollars. The people in car say I will not have need for money, only for lunch and taxi. One dollar fifty cents I spend for lunch going in car."

"In Bremen we have big dinner. I speak. Everyone is enjoying. Then the club ladies are buying me Pullman so I can sleep before exam. What they bought me I do not know how it is called. It cost seventeen-fifty. My speech is not worth seventeen-fifty."

"It was probably a roomette," I said.

"In my country it is dangerous for young girl to travel alone. I am wishing I am out in train with other peoples so I can yell. The porter is shutting me up in a room like a box. At first I am scared."

"He says, 'Where is your luggage?' I show him my textbook and purse. He thinks I am nuts, I say, 'I am college kid' He says, 'You travel elegant' and shows me a beef coming down from the wall on top of comfortable seat. When he is gone and the door she is locked, I wash my face in the sink. Oh, Professor, the plumbing! I hang my dress in clothes closet and look in long mirror and say, 'Ann, tonight you are grand-duchess! Wonderful feeling! I sleep!'

"In morning the porter is back. He says I care to eat breakfast on diner. I think of my half of one dollar for taxi, and I say like in Czechoslovakia, 'I am not hungry!'

Even grand-duchess do not have to be always for eating."

"But, Professor, I am grand-duchess. What can such a one do but give to the porter? I give him like so—"

She held an imaginary coin between thumb and forefinger, with little finger extended gracefully. I almost heard the tip drop into the porter's palm.

"But I was clever, professor. I made him give me ten cents back—for bus fare. Excuse me for being late—a grand-duchess may be permitted."

Spanish Flavor Americans Favor

Spanish Rice is truly a recipe originated by the Spanish. According to surveys, however, it is equally popular with Americans; and typical of the American liking for variety in the fact that it may have ground meat, fish, cheese, or any one of many other foods added to it, and still be called Spanish Rice.

The most American thing that has happened to make the old Spanish recipe really our own is a revolutionary new quick-cooking method. In eighteen short minutes from the time you decide to make it, you can serve it fragrantly steaming with all the richness and flavor that was formerly acquired only by long slow cooking of the rice and tomatoes.

Called Spanish Rice Pronto, it's a homemaker's dream made possible through the quick-cooking advantages of pre-cooked rice and tomato sauce. You'll be pleased and amazed at the tender single grains of delicious rice surrounded by the flavorsome goodness of rich tomato sauce.

Spanish Rice Pronto
 1/2 cup bacon drippings, margarine, or butter
 1 medium onion, thinly sliced (about 1/2 cup)
 1/2 medium green pepper, diced (about 1/2 cup)
 1 1/2 cups packaged pre-cooked rice
 1 1/2 cups hot water
 1 can tomato sauce
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 Dash of pepper
 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, if desired
 Melt fat in saucepan. Add onion, green pepper, and rice, and cook and stir over high heat until lightly browned. Add water, tomato sauce, salt, pepper, and mustard. Mix well. Bring quickly to a boil. Cover tightly, lower heat, and simmer gently 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Remember that metal like copper becomes it is highly resistant to stains. When it's necessary to brighten it, use a mild vinegar-water solution and let shimmer on the range.

Copper bottomed utensils should be kept bright and shiny with special cleaners made for the purpose of cleaning the bottoms. Use it periodically as pans do stain simply from use on the range.

turned an otherwise respectable conversation into a cheap spectacle. It was dirty politics at its triumphant best; it was the sort of politics this country may expect if a left winger is ever elected President. Incidentally the reputations of some of those who engineered this exhibition have definitely not been enhanced. Few Americans admire a cheap sport.

It probably would not be an exaggeration to say that regardless of the entertainment afforded the public by these conventions, 90 per cent of the American people would like to have an actual opportunity to select the man who are to stand for election to the presidency and vice-presidency. It sounds all right to talk about primaries, but in reality just how much did you have to do with the selection of the nominees? Had you authorized the trade you delegate made with another? Basic Safety Rules Being Taught School Patrolmen Motorists of Virginia were appealed to today by John B. Day, vice-president of the Tidewater Automobile Association, to cooperate with School Safety Patrol members in making street crossings here as safe as possible for children on their way to and from school.

"Children again this year will be taught basic rules of safe walking, including cooperation and obedience to the School Safety Patrol," Mr. Day said. "Teachers are being supplied again with monthly kits of safety educational materials produced by the American Automobile Association, with which the club is affiliated. The first of these materials for September will include safety lesson guides, with suggestions for teachers prepared by a team of four experienced educators, and a colorful poster, all on the subject of Obey Your Safety Patrol."

"With Patrol boys and girls and students working together to make streets safer, it is up to all motorists here to cooperate by slowing down in school zones, and being watchful for the presence of Safety Patrol members," Mr. Day added. "A continuation of the splendid cooperation between motorists and Patrol members will help to gain for Virginia another year of no accidents to children at school corners. Such a record has been made for many years here, and it is our hope that we can continue to assure parents that through the close cooperation of motorists and Patrol members no child will be involved in a traffic accident on the way to and from school."

World Trade Meet to be Held In Roanoke Soon

John Sidney Scott, vice-president of overseas operations for the National Cash Register Company, will be the keynote speaker at Virginia's fourth annual World Trade Conference.

The announcement of the keynote speaker was made this week by H. W. Kelly of Roanoke, general chairman of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce's Committee on World Trade. The Chamber is sponsoring the conference, as it has the other.

This year's meeting will be held at the Hotel Roanoke, at Roanoke, on September 23 and 24. Scott is a native of London, England, where he studied at the City of London College from 1920 to 1922. He began work with the cash register firm in 1923 as a clerk in the order and shipping department of the National Cash Register Company, Ltd.

He rose to the position of secretary of that company in 1933, by which time he had become a partner in the company in 1939, and transferred to Dayton, Ohio, as manager of the Dayton overseas department in 1947. He was appointed to his present position in 1950.

The vice-president averages more than six months a year in international travel, visiting subsidiaries, branches, factories and general sales agents of the company, which has representatives in 92 countries of the world.

Since January 1, 1942, Scott has traveled to England, Scotland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, France, New Zealand, Australia, Philippines, Japan, Hong Kong, Malaya, Thailand, India, Pakistan, Lebanon, Syria, Puerto Rico, Trinidad, Brazil, Peru and Italy.

The World Trade Conference will get under way at 10 a. m., September 23. Kelly explained, when all world trade subsidiaries are in attendance.

They include companies in the Commonwealth, the Virgin Islands, the West Indies, the Caribbean, the Pacific, the Americas, the Middle East, and the Far East. The same day, William E. Sullivan, president of the National Foreign Chamber of Commerce, will be the keynote speaker.

Cancer Crusade in Virginia Exceeds Quota by Big Sum

Cotton Bag Items To Be Displayed

Wearing apparel and household items made entirely from cotton bags will be exhibited September 19-27 at the Atlantic Rural Exposition in Richmond as a climax to the "saw with cotton bags" contest for 4-H clubs.

Miss Iva Byrd Johnson, clothing specialist at VPI, who has supervised the contest, says the exhibition exhibits will be from first prize winners in county contests held earlier this year. Each exhibit will be made entirely from feed, flour, salt, fertilizer, or other sacks.

This is the first year Virginia has participated in the contest, and Miss Johnson says the club members have learned many sewing techniques. Many parents prefer a beginner's sewing on one or two of the bags, rather than buying new fabric. She reports that about 150,000 O.W. yards of dress print bags, in addition to much white yardage, were used this year for patchwork, and that they are well adapted to use suits, shorts, skirts, dresses, and for many uses around the home.

A portable sewing machine and a complete set of sewing equipment will be awarded the 4-H club winning first prize in the State contest, and a portable sewing machine will go to the club taking second place honors. Clubs in the following counties are competing: Loudoun, Rappahannock, Stafford, Rockingham, Appomattox, Lunenburg, Westmoreland, Accomac, Norfolk, Charles City, Chesterfield, Prince George, and Warwick.

Co-sponsors of the contest are the Travel Bag Manufacturers Association and the Singer Sewing Machine Company. The contest is conducted in Virginia by the VAES.

The 1952 Cancer Crusade in Virginia exceeded its quota by over $50,000. It has been announced by William R. Perkins, Jr., of Lynchburg, state campaign chairman for the Virginia Division of the American Cancer Society.

The Virginia Division, with a goal of $200,000, received public contributions totaling $278,887.46. Funds will be used to support the American Cancer Society's three-point program of research, education and service.

Expressing his appreciation to volunteer workers throughout the state, Perkins said, "I hope all of you who have given of your time and money will realize how much we appreciate your efforts in our battle to eradicate cancer, which last year claimed the lives of more than 3,000 Virginians."

"A number of campaigns for worthy causes have failed to reach their goals this year," continued Perkins. "My deepest thanks to each of you for continuing to work until our quota was attained. By assisting in the 1952 Cancer Crusade, you are helping to save lives and alleviate human suffering."

Cancer Society chapters which raised 200 per cent or more of their quotas, with their campaign chairmen, were Charlotte and Rocky Mount.

LEGEND LOST IN AGES

The much read and beloved story of Robinhood, who robbed the rich to aid the poor, soon to be seen on film here, claims no author, as the story of Sherwood Forest is entirely apocryphal, its author unknown and the source of the delightful legend lost in antiquity.

KONTOPANOS AT RESTAURANT MEET

James G. Kontopanos, president of the Virginia State Restaurant Association, left Tuesday accompanied by Mrs. Kontopanos to attend a board of directors meeting which will be held at the banquet room of Arnet's Restaurant, Colonial Heights, Va., at 7:30 p. m. The morning program will begin with Sunday School at 10 o'clock. The Sunday School has set a goal of 450 in attendance. The morning church service will begin at 11 a. m. and will include the following: Program: a presentation of the history of the church, the progress of the church and plans for the future, special music by the church choir, and a sermon, "Jesus, the Author and Finisher of Our Faith," by the pastor, the Rev. Friends of the church are cordially invited to attend the homecoming.

SLAMMING DOWN A LA RAILROADS

The Before and After is mighty important to people who go to hair restorers, charm schools, plastic surgeons and others engaged in the business of altering personal appearances.

It is also important to those who pay taxes — and the changes are coming as startling.

In 1942, for example, every $30 of railroad income before taxes became an anemic $1 After Taxes.

The arithmetic of this is that the taxes paid by the country's railroads were 2.28 times their net income.

..... Fashion, That Is!

By ALICE BREWER WHITE

Fashion-Women's Editor

(Women's World, 9:30 A.M., Monday-through-Saturday, and "Repeat Performance," Tuesday and Thursday, 7 P.M.) WJLA, features Mrs. White's chatter about celebrities, homemaking, garden and civic events.)

Jacques Fath, famous French designer, whips up his elegant and chic fashion designs for American Joseph Halpert all well enough, but the keynote to the Halpert success story is the fact that every detail, from start to finish, is carried out right in the designing and work rooms of Joseph Halpert. The result is that the American woman recognizes this, and loves it. They want wearable clothes, with perfect fit, fine fabric, and fashion lines. Joseph Halpert, with his keen knowledge of the times here in America and the needs, and the experience of thirty years in producing garments renowned for fabric, perfection of fit, and work details, offers the fashion world the most defined production of the contemporary clothes. His theme, this season, is depicted in two silhouettes, from Romanticism to Realism. The period 1880 has inspired the daytime silhouette. For cocktail and evening, the line is very much 1951.

For daytime, the line is slim, lithe, sleek. The only fullness is at the back of the skirt, and it is achieved by the soft open pleat, or the gathered fronce. The rainbow arc neckline. The narrow straight sleeve extending to the wrist. The waistline is in its normal place, held snug. Skirts are slightly longer in the Fall-Halpert collection.

To spark this silhouette, the tipset appears that striking crossbreed of jacket and coat. Worked in wool for daytime, in satin, velvet, brocade, and a new fur-textured "chamomix" for evening wear.

Hannah Troy introduces an inspired softness and grace of line in her fashion story for Fall. Color is new, shining with this designer. A rich brown counterpoints black repeatedly.

In a series of costumes. Brown and black in a lace evening dress, black wool lined with luggage and again a turnabout in the use of these colors. Black velvet and silk soutache on brown. Red is a brilliant color note that flashes throughout the Troy collection.

Hannah Troy's tour de force for Fall this season is without doubt to be found in the exquisitely effective pleating that is used again and again in dresses. Sunburst over bodices, there is an elastic quality in the pleating of the skirt. This treatment falls from a smooth hipline into myriad pleats that fall flat, but become animated in motion. An illusion of a lower waistline is created too by the slimmest just below the waistline.

La Troy's shock effect rates a word or two. Heavy jet is sprayed on body tweed giving a very wonderful boost to suburban dress-up as easily as it fits into city living. Masses of jet are very effectively used on collars and pockets.

The Tulip Skirt! Now there's a flowery note: gardeners take note! Samuel Winstone's new collection takes its theme from flowers and flower forms: flower forms are seen in his skirts and necklines, and vines and blossoms are the motifs of lovely appliques and jeweled embroidery.

The Tulip Skirt, smooth, wide at the sides and tapered into a narrow hipline, is frequently shown on both dresses and separate evening skirts. Petal skirts and softly pleated skirts in sumptuous laces or metal brocade keep the interest below the waistline, but there is no lack of allure in the low necklines shaped around an inner bodice which covers the bodice with lace, self-fabric or embroidery.

Gertrude Lawrence, great comedienne and actress of the British and American stages, has died. Her final exit. Shocking news it was to read the front page announcement of her quick passing. I can recall interviewing her, still a bride of Richard Aldrich, on Cape Cod in the summer of '41 when she had arrived on her honeymoon in her husband's Dennis Cape Theater. She was a bouncy person—bouncing continually from one thing to another, from hobby to footlight task, and so on. Full of enthusiasm for life, the theater, her daughter, and her new home in the sun-drenched Cape. A rich, rich, in candy floss silk jersey and bubbling with chatter, you could never visualize Gertrude as to ever run down. She was no beauty but a stunning, interesting, talented, woman of great charm. All of us Lawrence fans will miss her.

Roly-poly King Parouk had a stamp collection worth $16,800, 000, which would make Jesse Johnson's eyes pop! A special committee is making an inventory of this minute of the former king's personal possessions and they revealed to her the extent of the king's personal fortune. The Parouk stamp collection is one of the most valuable in the world. The king had agents throughout the world making purchases daily and he spent several hours a day working on his stamps. (That accounts for those few unaccountable hours from the Continental gaming tables.)

Dale Fairless will entertain youngsters on Saturday mornings at 11 o'clock with the children's (records) Story Hour and later on, Friday night sessions for the teenage teenagers who like those silly song recordings. Dale thinks of everything, doesn't she? Jack Greenspoon and Dudley

Cooper are full of plans for a new ocean-front spot of Seaside Park which will include a two-story building big enough to house Convention goings-on and with plans afoot for a year-round eatery in the second floor dining room which will have out-to-see view windows as an extra bonus for giving their business. Ambitious plans but when those Two get their heads together, watch out for results!

My Hat's Off to Donald Hartley, one of the nicest juniors at the Beach, and for his invaluable Man - Friday aid to me during the talent night show and my band. Sun-lanned to the nth degree, he ought to make a crackerjack Christmas time delivery boy or aid to some worried shop owner. He's the nice mannered young son of the George Hartleys, Cavalier Park.

Another Hat's Off to James Darden, chairman, and Mrs. Fred B. Perkins, co-chairman of the Fair, for their "Best Fair Yet" job well done, and to all who in any way worked for the success of this 1952 Fair. They were pitching for success and deserve every adjective in the book!

"Blessing of the Hounds" (E. P. Dutton & Co.), is a novel about the beautiful Virginia countryside by Alexandra Phillips. Slow of start, this novel grows on you and mostly because the setting in the Virginia hills is written of so authoritatively by the author that you feel there is no State like Virginia before you turn the final page.

For those readers who have taken an old house and "done it over" it will be of special interest since the hero, Fritz Marlin, a writer,

By ALICE IN GARDENLAND

If you are putting perennial plants in your flower garden this fall, better stick some substantial labels into the ground where you plant. Don't trust to memory when the spring rolls around or you might find, when weeds are competing with your plants, you'd have quite a guessing game on your hands!

As you know, the foliage will die and disappear come the cold days, and unless you are quite sure you will recognize the leaves in the spring you may find yourself pulling out a few of the cherished plants you are soon to put in.

It's plenty easy to forget the characteristic foliage of the various perennials if you are not familiar with them. It is especially helpful to mark the places where you stick springtime flowering bulbs, and—in case you should lose some annual seed early, just as the bulb plants are about to poke their heads through the ground.

It's a good idea to circle plantings with sticks, so that you will not absent-mindedly dig them up when they show themselves. It's so easy to forget, come spring, in a new garden, just where you have planted what.

This all adds up to a good reason to make a plan of your garden on paper. This way, you can check off what you have planted, and you will know better what to expect!

Of course, such expert gardeners as Elizabeth Gregory Hill and Evelyn Collins Hill really know what's what with their vast acreage of gardens at Seabreeze Farm. Did you know that the hills took over that property about 27 years ago, it was just a bleak stretch of potato fields?

A charming plan the Hill sisters used throughout the years when they have been traveling in this country and foreign spots, of bringing cards back from places visited, they have mailed back to the sisters missing the trip many envelopes of seeds of flowers grown in the places they have visited. That's why you find such a plethora of different kinds of new blooms in the wonderful Hill estate in Princess Anne.

George L. Bonney, who has entertained many of the Beach garden clubs with his sprightly flower chats, slides and movies, is to be one of the rose judges at the National American Rose Society Rose Show to be held at Chesapeake, Pa., September 18. George will also be busy when the Tidewater Rose Society presents its 1953 annual rose show at Grandview high school October 18 and 19.

buys an old place in the hills which has not been occupied for a half century and lets the heroine, Gogo Ambles, set to for a redecorating career. And why "the founders"? Well, it's all about life in the town of Port Morage, Virginia, whose only claim to fame is its three lush hunt clubs!

"Sunday in Virginia and Other Poems" (Dutton) is something else again. It's loyal Gertrude Clayton's first volume, and as a native poet of Virginia, bidding fair to be heard from favorably again, lovers of poignant verse will welcome this volume as a treasure for the library shelf. Her unembittered narration of her "War Between the States" was particularly fine and "The Ballad of the Shenandoah" is another excellent poem. (Continued on Page Five)

SULPHUR PRODUCTION SHOWS HUGE INCREASE

One shortage the nation need no longer worry about is that of sulphur. Under the outbreak of the Korean War, the magic mineral of necessity has been in short supply. In recent months, however, the shortage has eased to the point where virtually all sulphur requirements in the U. S. are being met.

This optimistic note is sounded by Langbourne M. Williams, Jr., president of Prosper Sulphur Co., who reports that the outlook for the future is "extremely encouraging," as the result of nearly 100 new projects to increase the supply of sulphur, in all forms, in this and other free world countries.

These projects, it is estimated, will add approximately 4,000,000 long tons of sulphur per year by the end of 1955, Mr. Williams says.

Electric Power Tips the Scale

What is it that makes America so strong—stronger, for example, than Russia?

Is it our big population?—the Reds have millions more people! Is it our mighty armed forces and our great store of arms?—they have more soldiers; can commit to immediate action more planes, more guns, more tanks!

America is stronger because she can produce more. And one big reason is because she has more electric power!

An American worker uses more than four times as much electricity as the average Russian worker, produces in one hour, as much as the slave laborer can produce in a day.

When present construction under way is completed, Vopco will have increased its steam generating capacity 170% over 1946. Since 1946, Vopco has spent $214,000,000 for added generating capacity, transmission lines and new extensions of service to rural and other customers. (And not one penny of this $214,000,000 has been raised by taxation. It has come from savings and investments on the part of those who believe in the American system of Free Enterprise as the best way to build a strong and free America.)

Most electricity in this country comes from business-managed companies like ours—companies that have doubled, and more than doubled, their capacity to supply adequate electric power since World War II. In Russia, the government owns and operates all electric power plants.

Low cost, business-produced, electric power is a key to American production... and production is the key to our freedom!

Daddy Redearn Is Chosen To Attend Poultry Meeting

County Mothers has been chosen by the Poultry Department at the State Poultry Federation meeting to be held in Richmond, Va., October 28 to 30, to represent the Virginia Poultry Federation at the meeting. This was announced this week by H. W. Lupton, county agent.

His award was made on the basis of quality and quantity of poultry work completed in the past year and also for the current year. The Virginia Poultry Federation sponsors an all-expense tour for its 4-H Poultry Club members in each of the Eastern States and, as stated above, Daddy Redearn is the winner for the Southeastern Virginia District.

Redearn is a member of the Ocean View 4-H Club and of the Princess Anne Poultry Judging Team for 1952. The team will compete in both the District and State contests.

Patricia Lupton, a member of the Hatteras Senior 4-H Club, was the winner this week of a 17-ounce gold watch offered to the girl in the Southeastern Extension District for having carried out the most extensive project in the 4-H Farm Home Electric Project. The watch was awarded to Patricia at the 4-H Electric Congress held at the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond, September 8 and 9. In addition to conducting an outstanding 4-H Electric Project, Patricia is also carrying a Pure Breed Dairy Project, a Poultry Project and a Home Beautification Project.

Also at the 4-H Electric Congress the members carrying this project in Princess Anne furnished electric articles they made for the county exhibit which was displayed in the hotel during the congress. The Princess Anne Exhibit was widely complimented by the people who saw it and was placed second by the judges. The Virginia Electric and Power Company was so favorably impressed by the Princess Anne Exhibit that they asked the county agent to loan it to them for display in their Richmond Office building and the Norfolk Office building.

and at Virginia Beach. This request was granted and it will give the members carrying the 4-H Electric Project an opportunity to see it either in Norfolk or at Virginia Beach.

Plans are being made to carry a considerable number of 4-H Exhibitors to the Atlantic Coast Exposition September 19 to 27 and also arrange for a bus trip for the 4-H members to attend the exposition on Tuesday, September 23. The Poultry Judging Team will judge at the Atlantic Coast against teams from other states, and is being coached for this event.

REMOVED THE SCENES BY AMERICAN BUSINESS

Many a business man, looking forward to having a little bit of peace to retire in, looking first at the scene and then at the business. They don't expect to live a long, long time.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce recently added up all the Federally-owned land in this country and came up with the surprising total of 255,146,726 acres. This equals 711,166 square miles, or about 23.5 per cent of the total area of the country. According to the U. S. C. of C., if you put this all together, it would cover Italy, Japan, France, Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, and Portugal, and still have left in the edge.

Air Force Will Have Exhibits at Rural Exposition

The United States Air Force will bring historic and startling exhibits to the Atlantic Rural Exposition, to be demonstrated by skilled technicians, R. O. Glover, the Exposition's vice-president for operations, said this week.

On hand at the fair will be the "Lucky Lady II," a Boeing B-47 supersonic, the first and only plane to fly the "Blue-Globe" route.

Another outstanding Air Force attraction will be the XP-58 "Paso" jet fighter. This tiny fighter is smuggled under the bomb-bay of a "parent" bomber and released as fighter protection when attacked.

WTCouncil Plans Advertising For Winter Months

WTCouncil member C. B. Houch, Houch & Company, Inc., advertising agent, has prepared three visual full pages of advertisements to appear in newspapers for the purpose of welling winter travel to Virginia.

Completed August 22, and delivered to WTCouncil, representatives of these papers met at Richmond on August 26 and agreed to work as representatives of the WTCouncil to make them a reality. The State Conservation Commission will pay up to one-third of the cost of these, if private business group their own advertising on these papers to give us full page smashes. In other words, the WTCouncil now must get Virginia's private travel interests to group their advertising that they are already doing, under the key ad, paid for by the state, plus such new private advertising as we can get. The theme of all this advertising will be "Leisure Travel and Vacation Seasons in Virginia." It will urge the public to come to Virginia and see our attractions when these attractions are least crowded, when they can take all the time they want instead of going through historic or natural wonder attractions on a schedule. We will urge them to come when there are plenty of high class rooms, leisurely food and other services, lots of time for proprietors to make them welcome.

Whitham was notified on that evening that he was the holder of the winning ticket in the Holiday Moose Club raffle, with a 1952 Mercur Marauder as the first prize.

Whitham, a resident of Sheridan, Wyoming, was more than willing to accept the gift, a sleek four-door maroon sedan. The car is now in the process of being fitted with accessories, and with Federal tax, registration, insurance and accessories, will cost the lucky winner approximately $600.

Beach Hi School Plays First Grid Game Saturday

Katherine Jager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Hodges, was elected head cheer leader for the new Virginia Beach High School by the other cheer leaders who are transferring from Oceana High School.

The new Virginia Beach High School will play its first football game with Churchland, September 13, at 5 o'clock in the Ocean stadium.

The colors which have been selected are green and white, and the name decided upon is "Sea Hawks."

There will be cheer leaders to support the team. Any girls attending Virginia Beach High School who are interested in seeing out for cheer leaders, get in touch with Katherine Jager. Try-outs will be held when school opens.

A pep rally is scheduled for 8:30 Thursday night at the soft ball field.

Floberg to Speak At Shipyard Recommissioning

Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Atlantic, P. Floberg, will be the principal speaker when the giant aircraft carrier Lake Champlain is recommissioned at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard in Portsmouth at 3:00 p. m. September 19.

Floberg, who last spring qualified in carrier landings on the carrier Monterey off the Florida Coast, recently asked the prospective skipper of the Lake Champlain, Capt. G. T. Mundorf, USN, to reserve for him the privilege of making the first carrier landing on the recommissioned carrier.

The Lake Champlain returns from the Pacific to the scene of her birth. She was commissioned and christened there June 3, 1945.

That was the first time any vessel had been commissioned and christened the same day.

Original vessel to bear the Lake Champlain name was a 4,300-ton mine carrier, which was commissioned and decommissioned in World War I.

Her successor has been modernized over a two year period. She is almost as long as three football fields, will house 2,500 crew members who will require 8,000 meals a day for seven days a week.

Included in the modernization were lengthening and strengthening the flight deck to accommodate heavier aircraft; addition of a hangar; and new elevators.

Girl Scouts Have Active Summer

Girl Scout Troops 204, 207 and 208 of the Kempville District have been very active this summer. Aside from advantages offered in camping experiences at Camp Matoaka and Camp Linkhorn, the girls have been participating in a well balanced program in accordance with the needs of the Girl Scouts in this community.

In July, Mrs. Chas. S. Deaton, chairman of Fine Arts, Kempville Woman's Club, gave the group a lesson in water colors. The natural beauty of pines and river edge at the Military Hwy. Wayside Park, furnished an appropriate setting for the paintings. Early in August, Mrs. J. P. Cody, of Pakistan and England, gave the girls an interesting talk on International Friendship with the Hindu and Mohammedan. Cody lived in Pakistan, and was active in the Girl Scout program there. Her husband is Commander J. P. Cody of the Royal Air Force, at present serving with Admiral McCormick's headquarters at the Pentagon.

Later in August, Mrs. L. E. Burfoot, of the Virginia Society of Ornithology, and Tidewater Council of Natural History, took the girls on a nature hike at the azalea gardens, where facts on bird life and wild flowers were discussed. The program was so popular that Mrs. Burfoot has invited the girls to her home in Lake Terrace to see her collection of birds on colored slides.

The last summer meeting was held Thursday, August 28, in the form of an outdoor cook-out, at the home of Mrs. W. P. Phillips in Lake Terrace.

Mrs. Lyman Clarke is neighborhood chairman of the Kempville District, and the leaders and co-leaders are Mrs. John Gregory, Mrs. W. P. Phillips, Mrs. Jean Snyder and Mrs. Audrey King.

Fort Medics Play Stork Enroute To Hospital

Two Fort Story medical workers were instrumental in the safe delivery of a baby girl to Mrs. Ingeborg Tweedle, of Virginia Beach, on Thursday, September 4. The Fort Story ambulance was called to bring Mrs. Tweedle to Portsmouth Naval Hospital, and Cpl. Joseph Covello and Pvt. Edward G. Fair responded to the call. They were en route to Portsmouth when the birth started taking place.

Cpl. Covello, driving, swung the ambulance around and headed immediately for the base hospital at Little Creek Naval Amphibious Base, while Cpl. Fair assisted in the delivery of the child. At Little Creek, a Navy doctor warmed the baby and gave the mother injections. The group then continued on to Portsmouth Naval Hospital, where mother and daughter both were reported to be in fine condition.

The baby girl was later named Patricia. Patricia's father is SFC. Roy Tweedle, who is presently assigned to Fort Story's 5th Transportation Heavy Truck Company, on summer maneuvers in the North Atlantic.

Chief Johnson Cautions Both Children and Drivers

"An exciting game . . . a quick dash into the street . . . an automobile bearing down . . . and the game ends tragically for some unfortunate child!" In these words, Chief Reeves E. Johnson stressed today a scene which he has seen too often on the streets.

Chief Johnson, speaking on behalf of the Police Department, which is cooperating with the Governor's Highway Safety Committee's September "Back to School Child" program, urged parents to redouble their vigilance to guard their children against involvement in traffic accidents.

"Children," he said, "must be taught to take care of themselves in traffic. It seems strange that parents who are careful of their children's well-being in other respects often will be negligent in the matter of safety instruction. What good is a balanced diet, adequate rest, and the many comforts and luxuries most parents try to provide, if the child knows no better than to risk his life needlessly in traffic?"

Mr. Johnson pointed out that training for traffic safety is an outgrowth of all safety training, not something that starts when the child first ventures out alone in traffic.

He advised parents to teach by practice as well as by precept, since children learn most readily by example, and stressed the necessity of coordinating the home instruction in traffic safety with the traffic safety program at school. Any conflict between the two, he maintained, will hopelessly confuse youngsters. He also suggested that parents follow up to make sure their children put into practice the safety lessons learned at home and in school.

"All efforts in traffic safety education should be aimed at developing a sense of responsibility in the child," Johnson said. Parents should strive to impress upon children that whenever they are in the street, without an adult, they are strictly on their own—that any act of carelessness may cost them their lives.

Local Officials To Attend Parley in Old Point on 14th

Several members of the city council and some department heads of the city of Virginia Beach will be in attendance when the annual meeting of the Virginia League of Municipalities convenes at the Chamberlin Hotel, Old Point Comfort, Sunday, September 14.

The meeting will last for three days, and the Virginia Beach group will attend those meetings that apply to the various phases of city government.

Expected to attend from here are Mayor F. P. Murray, Councilmen Frank Dusch, John McComb, W. W. McLean, George Manon and Henry Gregory. City Manager Philip Ansell, Director of Public Works A. Worth Petty, and Police Chief Reeves E. Johnson are expected to attend portions of the three-day meeting.

Gone from the ranks of the Cavaliers are thirteen members from last year's fine team. Coach C. M. Tomko has Terry McCall, Donald Marshall, Frank Allen, Eugene Farber and Jimmy Darden as Monogram winners who can be expected to carry the brunt of the attack. These boys can expect plenty of assistance from such promising performers as speedy Chris Kamekulis, Dicky Burwell, Walter Gresham, Steve McDaniel, Bobby Powell, Buddy McKee, Jamie Carter, Dicky Powell and Kent-Lawler.

The Ocean squad will be short on reserve strength but can be expected to field a commendable first eleven. Injuries have hampered the Cavaliers in their early season drills, but (Continued on page five)

TAXPAYERS' GETTYSBURG ADDRESS

The following came to us by way of the Virginia Press Association, and is too good to keep. We believe you will long cherish its sentiments. It paraphrases a great oration, but if it is sacrifice, make the most of it.

"One score and sixteen years ago our father brought forth upon this nation a new tax, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all men are fair game. Now we are engaged in a great mass of calculations testing whether that taxpayer or any taxpayer so confused and so impoverished can long endure. We are met on Form 1040. We have come to dedicate a large portion of our income to a final resting place with those men who spend their lives that they may spend our money. It is altogether anguish and torture that we should do this. But in the legal sense we cannot evade—we cannot cheat—we cannot under-estimate this tax. The collectors, clever and sly, who computed here, have gone far beyond our power to add and subtract. Our creditors will little note nor long remember what we say here, but the Bureau of Internal Revenue can never forget what we report here. It is for us the taxpayers rather to be here dedicated to the tax return which the government has thus far so nobly spent. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these vanished dollars we take increased devotion to the few remaining; that we highly resolve that the next year will not find us in a higher income tax bracket; that this taxpayer, underpaid, shall figure out more deductions, and that taxation of the people by the Congress, of the government, shall not cause our solvency to perish."

A GOOD PLAN

The recommendation (to double assessed real estate values) of the newly named board of equalization of real estate valuations for the City of Virginia Beach is a good plan and one that indicates the sound business ability of the five men recently named by the Princess Anne County Circuit Court.

The board has recommended that real estate assessments be doubled, and at the same time that the tax rate be reduced by one-half. This is the initial recommendation of the board which will, among other things, make a study of the tax books of the City of Virginia Beach with a view to equalizing the taxes.

By doubling the assessed valuation of Virginia Beach property the city will be in a better financial position to cope with the increasing problems that face a rapidly growing community. Under the laws of Virginia, a city is limited to an indebtedness of not more than 18 per cent of its assessed real estate valuation. At the present time Virginia Beach is very near this point.

The increase, if adopted, would coincide with a 50 per cent reduction in the tax rate so that the taxpayer would not pay more in taxes, but the assessed value of property would be increased to such a point that the city might issue additional bonds if necessary, or the city might borrow money to meet its obligations. The plan is not designed to give the city the right to spend or borrowing by the city, but to place it in a position to meet any emergency or crisis that might arise.

Members of the board will be doing a great service to the citizens of Virginia Beach. The board's task is an important one and we can feel confident that any adjustments, in either direction, will be fair. William H. Darden is chairman of the board with J. C. Hayman, James W. Jackson, J. Stanley Smith, Jr. and A. T. Garrison as its members.

The board will work for Mr. Average Citizen in equalizing taxes and its first recommendation will not cost the taxpayer one cent more in taxes.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Time was when $10,000 a year was a lot of money. Only the relative few earned or had a reasonable hope of earning as much. Even nowadays, with record taxes and a four-bit dollar, it is far more than most families ever see, the average income being in the neighborhood of $3,000.

Yet there is a $10,000-a-year class of people in this country who simply don't make both ends meet, economize as they will. That, at least, is the theme of a fascinating article in the July issue of Harper's magazine, called "Going Broke on $10,000 a Year," which is signed with the pseudonym Jay Taylor. This class consists of junior business executives who must put up a front, appear to live very well, have good addresses, entertain as a part of their jobs, and donate generously to charities and other worthy causes. Mr. Taylor writes early in his article: "I'm a symbol—and a simpleton. I'm a symbol of the group from which business leaders used to be drawn, a group now being liquidated..."

Mr. Taylor goes into meticulous detail as to his finances, and it's quite a story. Last year, he wrote, he earned $10,400 and spent $10,456. And here, in capsule form, is what happened to his money: To get the full flavor of the account, of course, the whole article should be read.

First of all he actually got not $10,400 but $8,978, taxes having accounted for the difference. His first outgo was for rent—$1,656. This, he says, is about as little as he could pay without moving to too cheap a neighborhood that he would lose contact with his associates and endanger future promotions.

Several hundred dollars went out for unavoidable household expenses such as utilities, and his wife got $2,049, or some $40 a week, to buy the food and other supplies needed by a family of four. Furniture swallowed $274, and insurance $471. Mr. Taylor has no car and says he can't possibly afford one, but commutation tickets cost him $180 and are scheduled to go up in price.

Doctors and dentists accounted for $264, and the children's expenses, such as their clothes and school books and a summer camp, dug in to the tune of $241. He and his wife spent only $173 on clothing for themselves. Gifts and holiday expenses totaled around $300 all told, and there was a miscellaneous item of $364, which included such odds and ends as church contributions, wood, bushes and bulbs for the garden.

So it goes, in Mr. Taylor's summation—everything is accounted for down to the penny, except $133 for which he has no records. None of the items of expenditure seem at all high for a man in his position—many of them seem almost amazingly low.

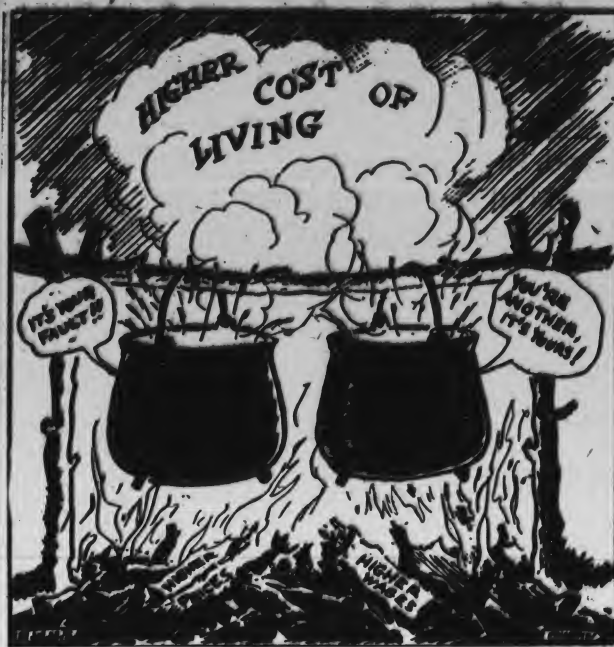

Mr. Taylor's conclusion is typical of the tone of his article: "So I speak as one small symbol of a class. I look at the broken down occasional chair which should have been replaced a year ago. I postpone my trip to the dentist for another six months in hopes that the pediatrician's bill can be paid in the interval. And I realize that I belong to a new class of forgotten men in whom no labor leaders, politicians, farmers, corporation presidents, or commencement speakers take any vested interest—the $10,000-a-year men, Vanquished Americans."

NEW BROOM

Elms Arnall, the price stabilizer who was always positive and seldom right, has finally quit. Tighe E. Woods, the former real estate broker, who has stepped into his shoes, intends to look things up. After a month of studying his new job, he says, he will go out and hire hells around the country so he can get a lot of experience. If he finds out people don't want price controls, he'll ask the President to remove them.

Such an approach is definitely against the rules. It makes too much sense. And it might even save us a lot of money.

THE POT AND THE KETTLE

DALE CARNEGIE

Cuter to Others' Interests

Milan Lesgett, Dallas, Texas, one day was at work when a man walked in and introduced himself as representing the light and power company of his city. Milan is employed with a broadcasting station and their electrical service had recently been switched from another company to the one his caller represented, and he had come to see what their total power consumption was so that a contract could be drawn up for their electrical service. The two men made the rounds of the building, and Milan told the other man just what the power drain of the water cooler, water pump, and air conditioning was. He explained to the transmitter and stated how much power it required. As they stepped outside and looked up at the towers, he gave the figures for the tower lighting system.

During this time he noticed that his visitor was fascinated by the transmitter, so he explained its operation as best he could. They went from one end of the transmitter to the other and he told why they were necessary. He showed the large tubes that cost $400 each, and again as they stepped outside he explained why they had five towers and why they were a certain height.

Before his caller left, he gave Milan his card on which he wrote his residence phone number, and said: "If you ever have a power failure or other trouble with our electrical service call me. You can call the trouble division, but if you call me, perhaps I can expedite matters." This meant that someday he might be able to save Milan's company a loss of revenue by expediting power line repairs. Since this courtesy was volunteered, Milan is sure that talking in terms of the other man's interest is what prompted it.

ACROSS the DESK

The demand for a "change" is strong. It is Eisenhower's task to prove that that means a Republican victory. On the other hand, Stevenson will urge that he will give a complete change and the administration will remain Democratic. He also has to determine how much aid he can afford to accept from the president and his personal followers.—The Gallen River Gazette, Three Oaks, Mich.

Not only do we wish to see the electoral college abolished and the President elected by popular vote, but we would also like to see a strong Republican party established in North Carolina. This wish is activated not so much by the wish that our state might receive more consideration from the nation in political contests by virtue of being a pivotal state, as it is the desire that we may get the Republicans out of the Democratic party in North Carolina.—The Warren Record, Warrenton, N. C.

When a man buys a home or a bit of property, he is casting a vote which is backed by his honor and fortune. He elects to become a stockholder in his community. He is expressing his faith in the future. He believes that our Constitution will validate his decision and secure him in the possession of what he labors and saves to acquire. His choice is made possible by the free market. It can all be cancelled out, however, if his political vote is not strong enough to maintain the free market without which personal choice is impossible.—The Free Press, South Charleston, W. Va.

Virginia Beach Sun-News
 Virginia Beach, Virginia
 Dear Sir:

Are the American people losing respect for their flag, or is it more thoughtlessness that results in allowing the Colors, unfurled, to pass in a parade unnoticed by civilians as well as by military personnel? In our position as members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, we know that military personnel are instructed in military courtesy; having attended public schools, we were taught proper procedure to be followed when the Colors pass in parade. We know that all good citizens of the United States love, respect and revere "Old Glory." If they were not so surely many lives have been lost in vain in its defense. How, then, can we explain such a flagrant display of disrespect by the people who witnessed the recent parade inaugurating the opening of the Princess Anne County Fair?

Breaches of courtesy toward the Colors which were noticed are as follows:

1. Failure of civilians (male) to remove headress, completing the salute by placing the forearm across the chest in such a manner that the right hand will be over the heart with the headress over the left shoulder.
2. Civilians (male) without headress place right forearm across the chest in such a manner that open hand is over heart.
3. Civilians (female) place the right forearm across the breast in such a manner that the open right hand is over the heart.
4. Military personnel in uniform salute in a military manner.

It appears that the above simple obligations are not too complicated for even a child to understand. We, in these United States, who boast of our educational facilities have no excuse to offer but carelessness.

This letter is not intended for those few persons who make themselves conspicuous by correctly addressing the Colors as they passed. Can we not accept the criticism as it is offered—constructively.

Now let us brush up on our courtesy—for all occasions—in order that we may show our appreciation for the privileges afforded under the protection of "Old Glory."

Apple Festival Opens Friday, October 10

Ancient and unique, but still operating automobiles, will find a place for themselves in the Grand Festival Parade of the third annual Charlottesville Apple Harvest Festival scheduled for Friday afternoon, October 10. These automobiles, which can progress under their own power throughout the line of march will be eligible for cash awards.

Festival officials announced this additional section of the parade in view of the fact that there has been a recent revival in the hobby of collecting antique automobiles. A new chapter of the Antique Automobile Club of America was recently formed in the Richmond-Virginia area and a very active club has been in operation for some time in the District of Columbia area. In addition to that, there are several well-known collectors of antique automobiles in several of the counties immediately adjacent to Charlottesville.

Automobile dealers throughout the eight county area participating in the Charlottesville Apple Harvest Festival are cooperating in the arrangements for this section of the parade. A search is being instituted for old Pignobiles, Maxwells, Stanley Steamers, and other models of bygone days. First prize for the oldest car entered in the parade will be $25, second prize $15, and third prize will be a trophy.

Application forms for entry in the old-car section may be had by calling at Festival Headquarters or writing to Box 112, Charlottesville, Va. No entry fees are required for entering your car in the parade. Festival Headquarters urge that information about entering old cars be communicated to them.

Underwater 'Weather' Has Big Affect on Supply of Seafood

The weather, particularly in unusually hot sun on the old river, is a common topic of conversation. But many people do not realize that similar changes in our local waters are equally important to the animals and plants that live there.

Biologists of the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory at Gloucester Point are vitally concerned with the weather under the water. Changes in temperature may have a great influence on the abundance and movements of crabs, oysters, and fishes. A recording thermometer, installed last spring at the end of the Laboratory pier in the York River, is providing a continuous record of temperature fluctuations.

The water temperature in shallow bays is influenced largely by the temperature of the air. Records collected during the spring and summer of 1952 show that the water is coolest at about 6:00 in the morning, and reaches its highest temperature late in the afternoon. For the past two months, the water has never been cooler than 50 degrees, and at times has reached almost 80. On the average, the water is cooler than the air during the spring and early summer, but warmer than the air in late summer and fall.

In summer, as every swimmer knows, the surface layers of water are warmer than those below. In winter, on the other hand, the water is warmest in the deep holes. Many of the animals that live in the Bay respond to these changes by moving inshore in summer and out to deeper, warmer waters in winter.

and started with the railroad as a messenger in Roanoke Shops August 9, 1905. He transferred to the treasurer's office in May, 1908, and was advanced to clerk that September. He became secretary to the treasurer in February, 1931, and was promoted to chief clerk in October, 1937. He was appointed assistant treasurer on December 1, 1938.

Chockley is a member of the Virginia State Bar and is a past president of the Virginia chapter of Rainbow Division veterans. During World War I he spent 18 months in France.

Temperature may affect the abundance of seafood by its effect on the death rate. Many crabbers believe that cold winters lead to poor crab catches the following year, and that mild winters favor the crab fishing. The temperature records now being collected may help to explain this phenomenon.

It is known that the waters along the Atlantic Coast have been warming very slowly over the past ten years. Perhaps this slow change has affected the migration of fishes, and has been partially responsible for the failure of some of our most important fisheries.

For instance, the State Conservation Commission will be sponsor of a Rock Fishing Tournament throughout the saltwater areas of the state, provided the private beneficiaries furnish the machinery to make it successful. If this promotion proves good, other types of fishing will be added in later years to a whole calendar of sport events—all growing out of this promotion.

GIs From Korea Asked to Exercise Care in Schooling

For veterans of service since the start of the Korean campaign who are planning to take education and training under the new GI Bill for Korean veterans, the Veterans Administration emphasized the importance of carefully selecting the educational program or training objective they wish to follow.

Under the law, V-A said, a veteran may make only one change of program and no more. If he makes his change before his deadline for starting training, he will not need V-A's approval. However, if his progress was unsatisfactory, he will have to show V-A that it was not because of his own misconduct, neglect or lack of application.

The purpose of the new GI Bill, V-A said, is to help a veteran obtain education or training to reach a definite, identified goal. The goal may be purely educational, such as obtaining a college degree; professional, such as becoming a lawyer; or vocational, such as training to be a steam-fitter.

Within certain limits, a veteran may choose any program of education or training he will need to reach the educational, professional or vocational goal he has in mind. Also, within limits, he may select his own school or training establishment, so long as it will "accept and retain" him in whatever field it finds him qualified for.

The law defines a program of education or training as "any single unit course or subject, any curriculum, or any combination of unit courses or subjects, which is generally accepted as necessary to fulfill requirements for the attainment of a predetermined and identified educational, professional or vocational objective."

A veteran may not take courses commonly considered as vocational or recreational in nature, unless he first submits justification to the V-A, showing that the course will be of bona fide use in connection with his present or contemplated business or occupation. He will need V-A's approval before he can start. Courses in bartending, dancing or pet-study development are prohibited by law and can not be approved under any conditions.

If a veteran wants to change his course of training after his deadline for entering training, he will need V-A's approval.

Six Fort Story men were presented the Good Conduct Medal recently for maintaining a good record in discipline, behavior, efficiency and fidelity while on active Federal military service. They are all with the 542nd Transportation Amphibious Truck Company, and include Sgt. Ellis J. Kelson and Claude Perry, and Cpl. John D. Cobble, Harold Nichols and James E. S. Gibson. Receiving his second award of the Good Conduct Medal is Sgt. Edward Dwyer.

The former Miss Iris S. James, of Virginia Beach, was married on August 22 to Lieutenant Commander Walter E. Hewitt, officer-in-charge of the Harbor Patrol, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Virginia.

The Coffee Episcopal Church has extended an invitation to the personnel of Fort Story to use part of the facilities it offers for their religious and social activities. The church is located at the intersection of the 10th and 11th streets, near the 542nd Transportation Amphibious Truck Company. Cruise Ship Maestran One of World's Most Luxurious Virginia who take the Virginia Maestran to South America and the West Indies and January will find the S. S. Maestran, the newest transatlantic cruise ship in operation, a very comfortable and luxurious ship. The information from the directors of the Virginia Cruise Corporation, which their wives brought back to the Old Dominion this week. The directors and their wives were special guests aboard the Holland-American Line's newest passenger vessel on the last leg of its maiden voyage from Rotterdam to New York. The party journeyed by train to Montreal and boarded the ship there for the trip to New York.

Myers, and Abby Haycock and Mrs. Haycock, all of Norfolk.

The directors were enthusiastic in commenting on the ship's facilities and said that they anticipated full bookings for the 1953 cruise, designated as "Atlantic Cruise" with South and Central America and ship travel from Virginia ports. Kemp pointed out that while the Maestran is the Ryndam's sister ship, the new liner is the more luxurious. Adding more done to the ship in the extensive use of glass throughout the public rooms, he said, more elaborate furniture and floor ornamentation.

Mrs. Mansfield, Mrs. Champney Head Home Society Drive

Mrs. E. C. Mansfield and Mrs. Ralph F. Champney, of London Bridge, are to be the co-directors of the Children's Home Society's annual drive for funds in Princess Anne County, beginning September 15, according to the announcement made by Richmond Henry, of Richmond, the Society's State-wide Campaign Chairman for 1952. "The Society had 277 babies in care in 1951," Henry continued. "It completed 71 adoptions and placed 84 other babies for eventual adoption, but as do this we want considerably in the red and need to increase last year's figures to maintain operations at their present level. The work of the Society is done primarily for the benefit of babies whose own parents, because of various circumstances, have to give them up prematurely. These babies come to the Society in real need of help.

"Given a chance, however, these children usually respond by developing just as other children do in favorable surroundings and bring a great deal of happiness to the couples who adopt them. It is significant that 30 families returned to the Society last year asking for a second child. Most of them gave the same sort of answer: they found the first child so well that they hoped to get another, equally satisfying, at the same place."

"The Children's Home Society was founded in 1900 and has worked in all parts of the State. Those interested in helping children in need are urged to give generously to support this work."

Dickie Stone is Lauded by Ladies

The Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, consisting of approximately four hundred women, graciously tip their bonnets to Dickie Stone, a young, attractive smiling Boy Scout, wearing so many badges that there is room for no more.

"Dickie," when called on by a representative of the Council of Garden Clubs to help in their publicity scheme of placing posters on automobiles and elsewhere, unhesitatingly replied, "Indeed I will, I'll help in any way I can." (He succeeded in distributing about four hundred posters.)

"Dickie" is a well known, likeable youth, residing in the Cavalier Park area, often seen cutting grass and doing other chores around his own home, and already developing an interest in the beautification of Virginia Beach. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stone, a member of Calles Episcopal Church, and an Honor Scout.

John Cassada, Frank Shine, Clinton Walker and Tommy Rose also did their part in contributing toward publicity for "The Women's Ticket." All of these boys spent many hours in distributing posters and running errands.

The city and county look forward to proudly claiming these young men in the not too distant future as valuable citizens to the community.

MANY FINANCE HOMES THROUGH INSURANCE FIRMS

Virginia property owners had $949,873,000 of their mortgage financing needs extended to them by the life insurance companies of the country at the start of this year, the Institute of Life Insurance reports. These real estate loans covered 59,180 individual mortgages in the state and represented an increase of $18,880,000 in two years.

"The years 1950 and 1951 saw the greatest construction job on record in this country and the life insurance dollars of the nation's $8,000,000 policy holders have played an important role in providing the necessary financing for this gigantic effort to meet the acute housing shortage," the Institute commented. "In these two years alone, the number of mortgages outstanding in this state with the life insurance companies increased by 19,190."

SUPERVISORS VOTE MORE FUNDS FOR VIEW WATER

The Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors, in special session Monday night, voted a $22,000 appropriation for the construction of a 340,000-gallon water treatment plant...

The decision was reached at the meeting which was attended by a 40-man delegation from the East Ocean View area.

The original contract called for an extension of an eight-inch main along Pleasant Avenue between First and 27th Streets and lateral lines on 14th, 16th, 18th, 20th, 22nd, 24th and 26th Streets.

The latest authorization will include additional lateral lines on 13th, 14th, 16th, 17th, and 18th Streets and extension to the lateral originally called for in the first contract...

At the meeting, the county board authorized a first payment to the contracting firm amounting to $29,000.

September being the traditional month for the renewal of school activity, the Virginia Beach Little Theatre is keeping right in step with an arrangement of tryouts for the first play of the 1952-53 season.

Best Dressed Tidewater Ladies To be Selected Monday Night

Tidewater's ten best dressed women will be presented at the Norfolk city auditorium Monday night in the third such presentation.

The event is staged annually and all proceeds are turned over to some worthy project. This year the St. Mary's infant home in Norfolk will benefit from the show.

Well known dress designers will arrive in Norfolk Monday and will be present at the auditorium that night. They include Charles James, New York designer, who is reputed to have designed clothes for more of the world's best dressed women than any other designer.

The presentation also coincides with the fourth anniversary of its originator, Mrs. Alexander, of Tidewater radio.

Chamber Gives Voting Records Of Lawmakers

A tabulation of the roll call voting records of Virginia's two senators and nine representatives in Congress on a total of 30 propositions considered significant in the economy versus spending fight was released today by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

The tabulation showed the following score for Virginia's senators on 20 selected roll call votes: Senator Byrd had four votes for economy and no votes for spending. He was recorded as not voting 10 times but on four of those occasions he was on record for economy and none for spending.

Local Representatives had the following score of ten roll call votes: Representative Hardy (Second District): Economy, three; Spending, seven.

The study listed as "economy" measures such as Federal departmental costs in Federal departments and agencies, to curtail subsidies, to limit "port barrel" rivers and harbors projects, to cut up foreign aid and to restrict certain types of military spending.

Some of the votes considered "spending" were those to increase public housing and public power appropriations and to eliminate various construction projects, including the St. Lawrence Seaway.

GARDEN GAB

As the Council of Garden Clubs, which brings you this weekly column, prepares to draw its fiscal year to a close, we would like to digress a bit and pay tribute to our president, Mrs. Gilmore Lee Tibbrook. Under her leadership much has been accomplished and many plans have been laid for future development. She has pleaded unceasingly for better garbage collections, a ban on throwing trash on our streets and roads, safety on highways, and other problems which she feels will benefit the community.

In order to keep the publicity a secret, the picture of Mrs. Tibbrook appearing in this column was obtained from her husband, who was not able to secure a recent picture of his wife without being detected, so he had to settle for one taken several years ago.

The beautification program on Thirty-first Street was already underway when Mrs. Tibbrook became president, and she has worked untiringly with that committee to attain the fulfillment of that program.

Mrs. Tibbrook has played a most important part in the beautification project of Atlantic Avenue. As president of the Cavalier Garden Club, she and her committee made a thorough study of this area to determine what could be done. Realizing that the job was too big for any one club, they enlisted the support of the Council of Garden Clubs, thereby reaching every club in the county.

There were endless telephone calls, committee meetings, conferences with State Highway representatives, letters to be written, and many more odd jobs to be done. She has always found time to do more than her part in whatever was to be done. The first fund-raising event for this Beautification Project has announced a total to date of about $2,200.00, and the co-workers tip their hats to one we believe deserves most credit—Charlotte Seibler Tibbrook.

Having been reared in a family of artists and musicians, Charlotte is more or less an artist in her own right. After studying banking at Columbia University, and working for a while with the National City Bank of New York, she became private secretary to Rodman Wana-maker, and then moved to California where she became confidential secretary to Howard Hughes. When Mr. Hughes opened his New York office a few years later, Charlotte was sent there as manager and while there managed Mr. Hughes' around the world flight.

Through association with Mr. Hughes in aviation, Major Tibbrook—known to his friends as "Tilly"—met Charlotte. They were married later and moved to Virginia Beach in 1946. Major Tibbrook is a partially retired Registered Professional Engineer, commuting principally to Washington and Pittsburgh. They own their home in Bay Colony, where they spend much time in their greenhouse and their garden, which is most outstanding.

With all the time that Charlotte gives to her community, she still finds time to handle her husband's secretarial work, keep house, work in her garden and greenhouse, enjoy her pets, and is ready with a willing smile and helping hand for those who call on her. We feel that she poeess

APPOMATTOX
Here at Appomattox was the scene of the Confederate surrender. On April 9, 1865, General Lee's army, surrounded and greatly outnumbered, camped. They were hungry and ragged and ill-equipped. General Lee met General Grant at the McLean House and there General Grant wrote out the terms of surrender. The tragic war had come to an end, and a new era, equally tragic and unnecessary was about to begin.

Piloting Classes Prove Popular

Approximately forty people enrolled in the small boat piloting and navigation classes to be held at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club under the auspices of the Elizabeth River Power Squadron. At the registration meeting last Friday night, Commander Marvin Stang of the squadron explained the scope of the study course and distributed classroom materials.

It was decided by those present to hold the classes on Thursdays at 7:30 p. m., beginning September 18, at the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club. Rules of the Squadron will be the subject covered at the next class. Some of the classes will include movies and models to illustrate the principles involved.

Others who may wish to enroll in the course may do so by attending the next meeting.

State Restaurant Operators Feted

Food was the center of the day at the meeting of the board of directors of the Virginia State Restaurant Association were entertained at Port Lee by members of Food Service Branch of the Quartermaster School.

The restaurateurs were welcomed to the military installation by Col. Coleman Bennett, chief of staff, who represented Maj. Gen. R. C. L. Graham, post commander. Other representatives of the association were Col. Roy T. Brown, commander, the Quartermaster School; and Lt. Col. Andrew T. McQuinn, chief of the food service branch.

During a tour of food service installations conducted by Colonel McQuinn and his assistant, Lt. Col. Winfield Sturdivant, the visitors watched officer students cook in action and viewed a demonstration on dehydrated foods. They also had an opportunity to taste the dehydrated foods.

At the bakery and bakery management school, student pastry bakers displayed their talents and later members of the delegation were treated to samples of the students' wares. Outstanding features of the visit to the bakery was a miniature restaurant, made from buns, bearing the words "Welcome Virginia Restaurant Association."

The visitors also saw field kitchens in operation and had an opportunity to taste biscuits baked in a field oven. Later, they were taken to the Aerial Supply School where they saw a demonstration of parachute packing and were shown methods of rigging heavy equipment for a drop from a plane.

The FEPC

By SENATOR RICHARD B. RUSSELL

Our Constitution is the best plan ever made to assure freedom and to release the creative powers of men. Because the Constitution protected individual initiative and property rights and left men free to engage in business, investing, employing workers, selling in a free market as they saw fit, America developed the highest scale of living the world had ever known. All groups benefited by the demand for labor and low-cost products.

For decades now, these fundamental freedoms of the employer, guaranteed by the Constitution, have been under attack. One example is FEPC, mislabeled "A Fair Employment Bill" when in reality it is an attempt by vote-seeking politicians to bar the individual's economic freedom for the votes of minority groups, who, in the long run, will be harmed and not benefited.

Senator Richard B. Russell's following statement on this subject, printed in the Congressional Record of February 7, 1946, deserves wide reading today.

The so-called fair-employment-practice bill bears an attractive label. The American people believe in fairness in all things. The mere fact that the bill is called a fair bill has caused thousands of people to support it with no knowledge of its far-reaching consequences and its effect upon American business and the American people. The attractive name caught even some Members of Congress and caused them to commit themselves to the measure before understanding its details. The measure has been highly propagandized in emotional appeals. Its details have not been discussed in this propaganda campaign.

Let me say at the outset that despite the efforts to create prejudice by making a sectional issue of the bill, it is not a sectional measure. It will affect every American citizen in his daily life, wherever he may live.

Those of us who are fighting this bill believe that it is misnamed. We insist it is neither fair nor does it provide any employment except for a vast army of new Federal employees to police American business and American agriculture. We contend that instead of preventing discrimination it will bring about discrimination in hiring and firing. We insist that the bill invades and strikes down rights of the individual American citizen already considered sacred. What does the bill do? It proposes to create a new Federal commission with agents and examiners to police the one and a half million businesses in this country, as well as all farms, where more than six people are employed. These agents will be supposed to see that the employer does not follow any practice, in either employing, promoting, or discharging his employees, which has been declared by the Board to be discriminatory, against any person on account of his race, creed, color, or national ancestry. Any person who contends that he has been denied employment or refused a promotion within a business because of such discrimination can file a complaint against the owner of the business or farm. Thereupon a representative of the Board brings the employer before him for a trial. The ordinary rules of law do not apply. The man charged with discrimination is denied the right to be tried by his home community. He may be tried at any place the Board through its examiner determines. A business man living in Phoenix, Ariz., can be tried in Detroit, Mich. He is not assured the right of cross-examining the witnesses or even seeing the witnesses against him. The agent of the Board is the prosecuting attorney, the judge, and the jury, and need not observe any rules of evidence. If he finds the accused person guilty of unfair practices, as he is almost certain to do if he files the case, the accused has no right of appeal which would enable him to have a new jury trial. His only recourse is to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which may be hundreds of miles from his home and place of business. This court by the terms of the law is powerless to help him if there is any evidence whatever against the accused. To all practical purposes, the employer is denied a fair hearing anywhere along the line, and this upon a charge as nebulous as that he has discriminated against an individual on account of his race, color, creed, or national origin.

Free American business, industry and agriculture, which have made this country the greatest and richest nation of the earth, cannot long endure if some super-bureaucracy of the Federal Government has the power to determine all employment policies. Think of a Federal agency having the power to tell a businessman whom he shall promote to a position of trust and responsibility. The bill, by its express powers, will nationalize all jobs in this country. American business, whether in the mine, the shop, the store, or on the farm, cannot maintain itself and go

Va. Forest Service Aids Timber Growers

The Portsmouth office of the Virginia Forest Service has announced the results of the timber management program for the past fiscal year 1951-52. A total of 144 timberland owners requested assistance in handling their forested areas in the six counties of the Portsmouth district. These free timberland examinations covered 6,000 acres of land. The foresters marked and estimated approximately 7,000,000 board feet of timber and 700 cords of pulpwood. A management plan was set up on each tract of timber estimated to the owner could handle his forest according to a set plan.

Any timberland owner may request free assistance by calling, or writing the Virginia Forest Service, Box 2007, Cradock, Portsmouth, Va. Telephone Portsmouth 759311.

PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY SUB-CHAIRMAN CHOSEN FOR 1952 CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY CAMPAIGN

Volunteer sub-chairmen for the annual solicitation of funds for the Children's Home Society in Princess Anne County are: Blackwater District, Mrs. O. L. Smith; Chesapeake Beach area, Mrs. E. L. King; Kentville District, Mrs. Charles M. Pitt with the following workers helping her, Mrs. L. L. Bickers, M. Donald Holt, Mrs. C. C. Hudgins, Mrs. William Hudgins, Mrs. R. F. Humphries, Mrs. Rhea Walker and Mrs. Robert Woodard; London Bridge, Mrs. Roy DeHart; Lynnhaven Village, Mrs. W. R. Payne, Jr.; Oceana, Mrs. L. S. Hiteshaw; Ocean Park, Mrs. David B. Hill; Princess Anne C. H., Mrs. D. J. Vaughan; Pungo District, Mrs. Walter Menden; and for Virginia Beach, Mrs. James G. Kontopanos.

according to the announcement made by Mrs. E. C. Mansfield and Mrs. Ralph P. Campney, 1952 co-chairmen for the county.

"These persons have volunteered their services because of their sincere belief in the work carried on by the Children's Home Society," Mrs. Mansfield and Mrs. Campney said.

"We appeal to our people to give generously to this worthy agency, which has already received a large number of calls for help in 1952. The work of the Society is made possible by a large number of individual gifts collected by volunteer workers over the State," they added.

The amount of work done by the Society has increased steadily for the last four years. Last year, 271 babies were on its rolls. Of these 99 came into care for the first time, and 60 others not on the rolls were aided by helping mothers to make satisfactory plans for them. Each baby coming under the Society's care gets special consideration for his or her particular needs and each has a good chance for a happy childhood and a useful life.

The Children's Home Society has raised approximately $145,000.00 through individual gifts if it is to meet increasing calls for help this year, according to Richmond Murry, president of the William Byrd Press, Richmond, and the Society's State Campaign Chairman for 1952. "We are grateful to all who have supported this worthwhile work in the past and we are counting on them and all other Virginians to help us meet our needs this year," Mr. Murry said. "Everyone can share in making this service available to the children in our State. Every gift proves doubly rewarding to its giver in terms of family love and good future for children who might otherwise not find a home," he finished.

CANADA SENDING SOUTH DUCKS IN HUGE FLOCKS

Western Canada is sending south a duck crop which many observers say is "the greatest in memory."

A highlight observation in the September issue of the "Duckologist," prepared by Chief Naturalist Bert W. Cartwright on his return from the 1952 Ducks Unlimited aerial waterfowl survey of northern areas of the three prairie provinces.

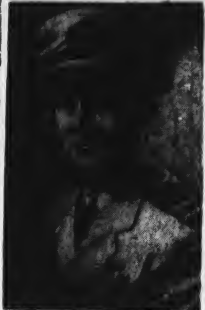

Revealing that waterfowl have been massing for their southern migration, Cartwright states that blue-winged teal and pintail have already started a southward movement. He is convinced that given a normal migration pattern, all flyways should enjoy an ample supply of ducks and geese. His summation states, "Major increases indicated for the Pacific and Central flyways, moderate increases for the Mississippi and Atlantic flyways."

Cartwright's findings from the aerial survey indicated a reduction of about 25 per cent in Manitoba's duck population, a 25 per cent increase in northern Saskatchewan and an increase of approximately 100 per cent in northern Alberta, as compared with last year.

Considering these figures, the "Duckologist" adds, "Tied in with excellent production on the southern prairies, the overall picture is the most satisfactory reported to date."

The concluding summary portrays water and waterfowl conditions as excellent in all three provinces, broad averages as having reached an all-time high and duck production as of record proportions.

TEEN TIMERS BULLETIN

For this girl, slowly but surely, the well-known, several appearances has been gaining favor.

Teen-Timers, it's the real you that counts today. A fresh, young radiance comes from the face of a girl who has been so successful in her work.

Sharon Lee Curtis of Northwestern University has just won a scholarship for herself and another for her sister, with a trip to Hollywood thrown in for good measure, in a contest sponsored by Max Factor, Jr.

Competing against fifteen other girls, Sharon was chosen not only for her beautiful face but for her honest approach in making the most of herself.

Some of her ideas are worth mentioning. For instance, by being careful in her choice of colors, she doesn't let her make-up tell.

Teen Timers, let's hear from you for nominations for the Teen of the Week and why he or she should be nominated.

her personality. She passes up unusual colors in lipstick and powder foundation.

Sharon uses the new method of applying pan-cake make-up which gives a perfect finish as fresh as a dusting of face powder, but so much more lasting. Here's her secret, in case you've had difficulty with pan-cake make-up: with a dripping-wet sponge she takes a little color off the cake, only enough to even up her own fairly pink skin coloring, and deepens it a trifle.

Virginia Painters Seek Art Awards

Paintings by 70 Virginia artists—20 men and 50 women—will be entered in a $12,500 international fine arts competition under way in New York. It was reported by the director, Vladimir Vinnik, that each will submit a water color on the subject of Christmas.

The competition is the second National Art Award, an international art project in which painters from 35 countries of the Americas and Western Europe compete for the highest prize in the art field. First prize is $2,500.

An unprecedented total of 4,573 U. S. artists have entered. Mr. Vinnik said, and an additional 2,000 or more artists are expected from other countries. One hundred winners will be chosen in December for prizes posted by the National Endowment for the Arts. Among the Virginia artists are some of the finest painters in America, said Mr. Vinnik.

Winning paintings will be exhibited during December at the White House gallery in New York and at museums and galleries in other leading cities during 1953 and they later to be reproduced by Hollywood on Christmas cards.

Virginia's entries rank sixteenth in number among the states.

Steps Outlined GI Home Loan

Five steps to a GI loan for a home, farm, or business were outlined by the Veterans Administration for the benefit of more than a million veterans who have been discharged from the armed services since the start of the Korean conflict.

The new Korean GI Bill, signed into law by the President on July 16, 1952, amends the loan guarantee section of the World War II GI Bill to include eligible veterans with service anywhere in the world since June 27, 1950.

Veterans Administration regional offices across the country are now issuing certificates of loan eligibility and processing applications for loan guarantees.

The six major steps to a GI loan are:

1. Find the property or business venture you want to buy.
2. Go to a bank, building and loan association, or other institution.
3. Present your plan and your original discharge or separation papers.
4. Property is appraised by VA.

HOG MANGE CONTROL MAKING PROGRESS

Hog mange is still considered a major economic factor in Virginia's swine industry, but farmers are getting better control all the time.

Dr. J. O. Rowell, entomologist at VPI, says hog producers are making strides in controlling the mange, which in recent years has not been as widespread over the state as it was formerly.

OPS Director on Nationwide Tour

Timothy Edward Woods, assistant to Governor Mills Arnold as Director of the Office of Price Stabilization, has begun a nation-wide month-long trip around the country to find out whether or not the consumer, particularly the country's housewife, wishes price control.

Mr. Woods declared before setting out on his trek that he wants consumers to speak freely and frankly about the controls program. He will urge that they ask questions and make suggestions.

"I want to get the opinion, questions, and suggestions of the American housewife," Mr. Woods said. "She is the nation's No. 1 purchasing agent and I want to get her viewpoint on what is happening to her budget."

"After all," he added, "an effective stabilization program is possible only with the complete understanding and cooperation of the consumer."

The new price director will appear in Richmond, Va., on September 29, at which time he will meet with several hundred housewives in the studio of WRNL radio station.

Emphasizing that personally he believes strong price control regulations are essential in many areas of the national economy at this time, Mr. Woods said: "I want to see if there is any substantial basis for the claim that the American people are indifferent to the price stabilization program."

Used Cars Reduced 2% October 1. The Office of Price Stabilization reminds buyers and sellers of used automobiles that ceiling prices on these motor vehicles must be reduced 2 per cent on and after October 1, and at the beginning of each calendar quarter thereafter. This, says OPS, is in accordance with Ceiling Price Regulation 94, which requires that ceiling prices on used cars be reduced 2 per cent at the beginning of each calendar quarter.

Community Food Pricing Program. Price officials point out that the community food pricing program, now being worked out to begin on or about October 1 is approximately 50 days older than that of the country, will have two main advantages: (1) Community pricing lets the consumer know at a glance the ceiling prices on many of the foods he buys. (2) Since these ceilings are figured by OPS on a community-wide basis, grocers are relieved of the necessity of calculating their own ceiling prices.

The Director of the Office of Price Stabilization explains that community pricing does not change the general level of food prices, either upward or downward. Since ceilings are fixed on the basis of wholesale costs generally prevailing in a given area, community pricing will neither lower nor raise the general level of prices in that area. It will, however, make such prices uniform for the same class of store in each market area.

Ceiling Prices on Canned Soups. OPS reports that the Price Stabilization Office has acted to retain the present ceiling prices on canned soup.

The agency says it has eliminated a provision in the canned soup ceiling regulation which authorized sellers to increase their ceilings when raw materials costs increased, and requested them to reduce ceilings, if these costs declined by 5 per cent or more. Price officials say this action is in line with agency policy of containing present ceiling prices on all foods subject to price control.

New Ceilings on Soybean Meal Mixes. The OPS announces that contracts for forward delivery of soybean meal mixes after specified dates will be subject to new ceiling prices to be issued shortly.

The agency refers to its announcement of August 22, that it will reduce ceiling prices on the mixes which are being sold instead of the basic oil-seed feed customarily produced.

They're on Stalin & Company's "Prospect List"...

If Joe Stalin and his colleagues can't sell Communism to today's American generation, they're determined to sell it to tomorrow's.

Accordingly, high on Stalin & Company's "prospect list" are the millions of bright-faced youths, between junior high school and voting age, who will be Mr. and Mrs. United States tomorrow.

The best place for Stalin's "salesmen" to reach these "prospects" is in the schools that bring them together. This simplifies things for Stalin & Company. Influence one textbook publisher... contaminate one teacher... and Communism can reach hundreds or thousands of young minds.

Fortunately, for every "Pink" or "Red" trying to worm his way into our classrooms, there are thousands of alert, patriotic school men and women just as determined to keep him out. If the parents of the U. S. A. join forces with our educators... If they seriously try to determine what our sons and daughters are learning... if they investigate radical ideas brought home from the classroom... If they take an interest in textbooks and the people who write and publish them—

Stalin & Company's salesmen will have to go home tomorrow and report to the boss, NO SALE!

This is one of the things it will take to keep the United States on the right track, and free.

"Next in importance to freedom and justice is education, without which neither freedom nor justice can be maintained."

AMERICAN YOUTH CAN BE REAL BULWARK AGAINST COMMUNISM

The following is excerpted from an address by the Hon. Nelson S. Dixon, (Senator from Riverside County, Cal.) to the Los Angeles County Institute, 3334, Social Studies in the Junior College, John Muir College, January 17, 1952.

In warning against the dangers of Communism and pleading for more thorough indoctrination of American youth in the glorious heritage which is theirs, the author says: "The thing to be afraid of today in America is that we do not give an effective testimony to our youth of the value of American institutions and what they cost in the history of our race. . . you cannot try Communism any more than you can try socialism or cynicism."

Liberty once lost is rarely regained. When the gates of Rome were opened and the invader came in, it was five hundred years of oppression and exploitation, of five long centuries before a measure of freedom again came to the Italian people.

In the last 35 years a new type of total war has been waged on the world, a propaganda war. It attacks the America we love, the American institutions our forefathers died to build, at their basic foundation in the hearts of our people.

This total war of ideas, of propaganda, known to frontiers such as are lined with guards and forts. The bombs come by mail and the spoken word. You, the custodians of the education of our youth are the innermost line of defense. If you let the enemy through, all is lost. Liberty and freedom flourish but once in the history of any nation or people.

Basically all socialism and communism denies the elemental desire of the normal human heart for the right to make himself and his loved ones comfortable and happy in their own right, by their own labor, endeavor and thrift to accumulate their own possessions to enjoy and retain in their own control. I plead for the freedom of citizens to choose the economic methods best suited to their needs, subject of course to law and honesty.

Whenever this basic liberty is denied, human endeavor withers for lack of the life-blood of personal incentive and all progress dies. The truth should be earnestly presented to our youth so that they may be adequately informed to face intelligently the great decisions they will have to make in the solitude of their own minds.

Americans, young and old, are examining their opinions and their ideology of government. Particularly young Americans are choosing their leaders. Their choice is not between Russian communists and American supporters of constitutional liberty.

The choice is between American supporters of our constitutional method on one hand, and on the other side Americans who offer peace and plenty but conspire to seize power by force. These other Americans study the same textbooks and are under the same discipline as the communists.

upset rulers of Korea, of China, of 'oland, and would commit the same terrible crimes in this country if they succeed in seizing control and overthrowing our present government.

This activity for the infiltration of our educational institutions and all of the strategy for the capture of youth in this and other countries, flows from a closely guarded document called Programme of the Young Communist International. This programme was adopted by the Fifth World Congress of the Communist International on March 13, 1929.

In the Communist for May, 1937, there appeared an article by Richard Frank entitled "The Schools and the Peoples Front." He says, in part: "The task of the student communist groups must be to coordinate and stimulate to activity all existing student groups. To the best of their ability, they must supplement the curriculum with Marxist-Leninist education."

Deborah, 'Woman' not Courage.

Lesson: Judges 4: 1-10, 13-15

5: 1-7.

Golden Text: Joshua 1:9.

Our lesson tells of the destruction of a great army of the Canaanites and the death of the mighty leader who had been accustomed to lead 900 chariots into battle against the Israelites at frequent and terrible intervals.

Deborah, a judge of the Israelites, determined upon effective resistance. Enlilitha, a strong warrior, a plan of battle was formed that caught Sisera and his army between two forces on the plain of Esdraelon.

Deborah, a prophetess and a judge in Israel, was a great poet and in her song of victory she spoke of the stars in their courses as fighting against Sisera. There came a torrent of rain upon the plain and begged the chariots of Sisera down in mud.

Sisera once saw that his own life was in danger and fled away on foot. As length he reached the house of a paid spy that he had employed to report at all times on the movements of the Israelites. The spy was not in the tent, but Sisera thought he could trust the man's wife. So he turned in and soon fell into a sleep of utter weariness, and he awoke from it nevermore. For Jael drove a tent pin into the man's forehead and he died by the hand of a woman.

Aided by a mild winter during the period of the strike, the Fuel Commission was able to meet most of the emergency needs for coal in Virginia that year.

However, in the event of bad weather this fall and winter, it is extremely doubtful, they said, that the strip mines would produce sufficient coal to meet emergency needs. The commission said that during a strike, processed coal is virtually unobtainable, due to the lack of facilities for processing. Run-of-the-mine coal is about all that can be produced for emergency or other uses.

Carib Exporters Anxious to Learn Of Markets Here

Virginia suppliers received good news last week from the Caribbean when it was learned that importers there are eager to learn more about goods produced in the Old Dominion.

The report came from Richard Maxwell of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, who has just returned from a tour of Venezuela, Haiti, Martinique, Barbados, and Puerto Rico. Maxwell made the trip to arrange for the visit next January of the S. S. Mountain which will make the annual Virginia Cruise from Norfolk, leaving January 7 and returning January 21.

Among the goods in demand in the Caribbean are such items as railroad equipment, prefabricated houses, glass-making tools, hospital equipment and all types of construction machinery.

Those making this year's South American cruise, said Maxwell, have an opportunity to see at first hand the "remarkable business growth of the area."

Puerto Rico was described as "having new records for construction and development." The government launched an intensive industrialization program six years ago and as a result 150 industrial firms have been attracted to the island. Net income has almost tripled in 10 years and property valuation has doubled.

The importance of this area to Virginia industries and shippers is pointed up by the fact that Puerto Rico is one of the best customers of the United States, and Venezuela is also a major buyer of American goods. In fact, one Virginian businessman making the American cruise is quoted as saying that he is looking for "fun, relaxation . . . and business."

Fuel Commission Warns of Shortage

The Virginia Fuel Commission this week warned of the possibility of a coal strike at the end of this month and urged all consumers to take immediate steps to conserve coal.

"I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the cooperation of all consumers in the coal shortage," said the commission. "We are now in an extremely critical position and we need every ounce of coal that we can get."

A crippling strike two years ago brought about the formation of the Virginia Fuel Commission, with Judge W. H. Nichols, Jr., Colonel John Q. Rhodes, Jr., and General James A. Anderson heading a State-wide organization.

Aided by a mild winter during the period of the strike, the Fuel Commission was able to meet most of the emergency needs for coal in Virginia that year.

However, in the event of bad weather this fall and winter, it is extremely doubtful, they said, that the strip mines would produce sufficient coal to meet emergency needs.

The commission said that during a strike, processed coal is virtually unobtainable, due to the lack of facilities for processing. Run-of-the-mine coal is about all that can be produced for emergency or other uses.

HOME SOCIETY DRIVE NOW UNDERWAY IN PA COUNTY

The annual drive for funds for the Children's Home Society in Princess Anne County is now in progress. If no solicitor calls on you—please telephone either Mrs. E. C. Matfield or Mrs. Ralph P. Chumpey of London Bridge, the co-chairmen for the county, and ask that a worker be sent to see you.

Every year the Children's Home Society receives a considerable number of letters expressing the writers' gratitude for the services given by the Society. Many of these letters are from persons who have adopted babies. They write to tell their delight in their children and often send pictures of the children. Often the pictures come on Christmas cards.

Less frequent are letters from the children themselves. Most of them know they have been adopted and, although a "Society" may seem to be a very impersonal thing to some people, it does not seem so to these kids. In 1951 the Society received a letter saying:

"I want to tell this opportunity to express my appreciation for the wonderful work you are doing for the children of the world."

The Children's Home Society of Virginia is a non-profit organization that has been in existence since 1891. It is a national organization that has branches in many states. The Virginia branch is located in Norfolk and has a large staff of workers who are dedicated to the care and education of children in need.

Va. Realtors At Cavalier October 4-6

Between 300 and 400 members of the Virginia Real Estate Association are expected to convene at the Cavalier Hotel next week, October 4, 5 and 6, when the annual state convention of that group opens here. The annual meeting will last through Saturday, October 6.

The convention will open with a dance and floor show at the Cavalier Beach Club on Thursday night. On Friday morning the Board of Directors of the association will hold a breakfast meeting at which time there will be an election of officers for the next year.

Outstanding speakers are scheduled during the three-day meeting, and a special event will be the awarding of the John G. Graham trophy to the delegate delivering the best short talk on his home town.

Two banquets are on the program, one scheduled for Friday night and the final banquet on Saturday night. A feature of the recreational phase of the meeting will be the annual broker's golf tournament to be held Sunday afternoon over the Cavalier Country Club course.

W. Ludwell Baldwin, of Norfolk, is serving as general chairman for the convention which is being sponsored jointly by the Virginia Beach and Norfolk Real Estate Boards.

The American Fashion Critics Awards for 1963 have just been presented to Ben Zuckerman, tailor, and Harvey Bern, high-fashion. This is the year's most important fashion award, presented each year for the past ten by Coty, Inc., and given to those who have made the greatest contribution to the American fashion picture during the year.

Two of the season's busiest adjectives — glamorous and luxurious — have been put to work by Ben Zuckerman in a new place, the coat and suit vocabulary. To Ben Zuckerman there is as much scope for beauty in wool as in silks and satins; his street coats are as stunning and effective as the evening gowns of other designers this season. Yet his things are thoroughly useful-looking.

The Zuckerman touch in his suits manages somehow to be "rich" and restrained at the same time. Since this designer's word has a way of becoming fashion law, you may look to a period of "personality" and regal air in street clothing.

The long slow flare from armhole to hemline, with no "nip" in between is one of his favorites. His morning-glory coat opens out like a flower in a lovely subdued swirl below the knees, while the skirt is very softly but firmly manipulated. Most of his coats dispense with extraneous trimming, letting the beauty of fabric and cut do all. Some, believe it or not, even dispense with buttons, managing to stay closed by means of the neckline or a center plait or a leather belt. All wrap the throat high and securely, even when the coat is actually collarless.

New note in closing: many Zuckerman jackets close at the side and the necklines of both suits and coats very often swoop sideways to button.

Afternoon suits and three piece costumes are made in elegant black homespun woolsens and Lyons velvet in black and rich velvets. This new red also has been made up in one of the most beautiful theater coats of the year — a big-collared morning-glory coat in red with soft pink satin lining. Plenty luscious!

Elegant linings: lush color combinations with charming satin in flower blue or violet glowing in side dark coats and a number of coats from tweed to velvet are fully lined with mink, seal or ermine. So much for Ben Zuckerman.

Harvey Bern's new waists lengthen, about eight inches from the floor, even for the grandest of jeweled ballgowns, is magnetic and utterly lovely to behold. Bern's brilliant choice of fabrics, from soft-as-satin French flannel and Italian silk, trend to layers of silk marquisette over satin fused together by exquisite handwork of silk flowers, applique and jewels is something the fashion world will probably regard as Topic A for a long time to come, as the exquisite hand-decoration of a Harvey Bern dress has long been famous.

Invariably, Award Winner Bern's accent is on youthful luxury, on elegance that gives assurance rather than demanding it of you!

Virginia Johnson Holland, born in Onancock, Accomack County, has lived in Virginia Beach since '42. President of the Business and Professional Woman's Club for the past two years, is planning the Beach club's participation in National Annual Business Woman's Week, September 28-October 4, with "The Ransome We Build" as the national theme. In state radio and television chairman of Business and Professional Woman's Club, also member of Princess Anne County Woman's Club having been secretary and also treasurer for two years each. In second vice-regent of the Princess Anne County chapter of the D. A. R., a member of the First Presbyterian Church and the proud grandmother of 2-year-old Stephanie, whose Mom, Mrs. Frank C. Stewart, Jr., is Virginia's daughter. Although she's a dabbler in local real estate, Virginia is regular office manager and bookkeeper for Forbes Candies. After graduating from Painter high school on Eastern Shore, she attended West Hampton College, graduated from Norfolk College and has her first general business course teaching job there, then to Smith-Douglass company for eight years, taught four years in Princess Anne County and finally to Charles Forbes Mayflower Apartments offices.

People, Places, Stuff . . . and Things

Elizabeth Arden Graham and Wells Simpson Windsor have put their well-cooled heads together and come up with the idea that has Society all a-buzz! When the Duchess of Windsor returns to America late this Fall, from her summering on the Continent, she will take over the general chairmanship of the 1964-65 International Fund Ball to be held at the Waldorf Astoria, January 6, 1965. This is the social function of the New York season, and with Elizabeth Arden sponsoring the event, it can't miss putting the duchess right there on the top of the social heap. Wonder why she didn't order her ball gown from an American designer for this great American event, benefiting American musicians. Christian Dior is creating the ballgown that will go far towards creating the Queen of Society idea!

Ben Myerson, beautiful co-star of NBC's television show, "The Big Pay-Off," is spending a week's vacation with her husband at the Hotel Cavalier, and last week, when I chatted with her on the phone in New York, she couldn't wait to get to Virginia's shores for her first look of the state. It's her hubby's first week of vacation of this year and Ben Zuckerman, like the good wife she is, is making every effort to devote time to him and not to her T-V public for this one week.

When Katharine Cornell opens at the Ford theater, Baltimore, at the week of October 13, she begins a 76-city trek that will take her to the West Coast and up into Canada with Somerset Maugham's "The Constant Wife." This will be the most extensive trans-continental tour of Kiti's distinguished producing-starring career, with the tour covering 10,000 miles. She'll be in her element, his original role as Kiti's ardent admirer.

Her stage wardrobe, when viewed on Broadway last spring, was lavish and flattering. A great relief from the usual costume things that Cornell generally traipses about in. Her role of the witty and urbane wife, the understanding sort of gal, has given her her happiest stage role in years. She actually sparkles in it!

Mrs. Robert Venner, Mary Ann and Amanda appearing together in the Kennerly Women's Club Horse Show, with the general Ur. Venner as interested as his family in their horses. "Lady Surprise," "Rusty" and "Jim," gave a fine family touch to the successful event.

Ever since Mrs. Ashley Haycox returned from the first-run trip aboard the new Holland-America liner Maasdam from Canada to New York, she has been a super-sailorwoman of the luxury ship's great possibilities during the forthcoming 14-day South America-West Indies Cruise, come January 7. I doubt if there are any adjectives left in the Haycox vocabulary which haven't been used to describe this palace afloat. (If you're going on the Cruise, better get your reservations in pronto!)

Ruth Mazury just brim-full of plans for the Virginia Beach Little Theater's first production October 28-29, a farce comedy "Brighten The Corner" with a great appeal to our Navy neighbors. It's the happy tribulations of two young couples "just getting out of the Navy," so you know it will be fun.

Mrs. Marguerite Barco bee-busy rounding up original skits for the Junior Woman's Club "Scandals of '33" with everybody happy that their show will be staged on the new high school auditorium stage and during a weekend—February 5, 6 and 7. Ann Pennington and your Albee will trot through one about trials and tribulations of a radio girl as the theme.

New Englanders did not begin to celebrate Christmas until the 19th century.

These September days have given us the first hint of the new season. Many cool days have led us back to our kitchens, after perhaps staying away as much as possible during the very hot summer we've just had.

One of the very first thoughts of fall is of heartier foods. One fall-time, all-time favorite is the ever-popular pot roast.

We usually think of pot roast with potatoes and vegetables. Let's change that good old reliable potato for Spanish rice — yes, Spanish Rice Pronto. I know you'd say it—I HAVE been talking a lot about it lately, and why not? When you know about good things, why not tell all your friends and neighbors, so they can share with you? After all, sharing with others makes life worth living.

In just 18 minutes, with Minute Rice, you can have Spanish rice. Here's the recipe:

- 1-4 cup bacon drippings
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced
- 1-2 green pepper, cut fine
- 1-3 cups Minute Rice
- 1-3 cups hot water
- 1 teaspoon salt, dash pepper
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard (if you like)
- 2 cans tomato sauce

Melt bacon drippings in saucepan or skillet. Add onion, green pepper and rice. Cook and stir over high heat until all are lightly browned. Add hot water, tomato sauce and seasonings. Mix well. Bring quickly to a boil, cover tightly and simmer 10 minutes. Isn't that wonderful?

To be sure, you know how to prepare a pot roast, but if you don't—here's how. Season roast, dredge with flour and brown slowly (use bacon drippings or salad oil) turning often. DO NOT BURN. Slip on low rack. Add 1 onion (sliced), 1-2 cup water, 1-2 cup vinegar. Cover and cook in moderate oven, or slowly if you cook it on top of range. If necessary, add little water—so as to keep about one inch of liquid at all times in bottom of pan. For 5-pound roast, cook 3-4 hours. Bye now. See you next Thursday.

Gandwich snacks always offer a challenge to your ingenuity, whether you have them for refrigerator raids or for lunch boxes. Here are some tips on keeping them interesting:

Hot dog and hamburger buns give interesting variety to the bread picture. Salad mixtures, such as tuna fish, egg salad or meat salad go nicely into them.

Here's an interesting sandwich filler which may be a little different from ones you've tried: chopped sharp American cheese, pieces of pickle, pieces of black olives and enough mayonnaise to hold them together.

Why not use the last of the frankfurters and wieners for a sandwich? Slice the wiener and combine with baked beans, adding a bit of chili sauce and brown sugar to moisten. If you want to heat this, place on bread or halved bun, top with a slice of processed American cheese and broil until it bubbles.

You'll get a request for this filling often: Mash avocado and sprinkle with lemon juice; add crumbled bits of bacon, salt and just a bit of mayonnaise.

DALE FAIRLESS, the whiz business woman, has many cute slogans up her feminine sleeve! For her real estate business—located in the Mayflower Shopping Center—it is: "Hunting for a house? Don't be careless—see Fairless!"

"For happy times for girls and boys, select your gifts and choose your toys from DALE FAIRLESS!" And what a collection of toys, gifts, greeting cards, notions—even a substitution—is to be found in her avenue-side shop, same location.

RCA Victor, Columbia, Decca and Capitol records for all tastes—complete children's selections!

Christmas gift lay-aways and orders for personalized holiday greetings being accepted now by DALE FAIRLESS.

Haycox, Mrs. Sidney S. Kellom, Mrs. George T. McLean and Mrs. Harry Price, Jr., all of Virginia Beach; Mrs. A. T. Taylor, of Princess Anne County; Mrs. Olin Garrett, Mrs. Richard D. OVER 7,000 STUDENTS IN PA SCHOOLS

NEARLY 1000 OVER 1951

Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach schools, according to the current school year have topped the 7,000 mark, according to figures released by Frank W. Col, superintendent of the county school system.

The incomplete figures reveal that white and negro students registered this far number 7,220. The total represents an increase of 965 over the 6,255 figure of last year.

Cos still believes the earlier estimate of 8,000 enrollments will be reached by Friday when it is expected that late enrollments will be registered.

The W. T. Cooke school at Virginia Beach shows an enrollment of 667 compared to 810 of a year ago. The decrease here is due to several grades being shifted to the Virginia Beach high school.

The new high school has an enrollment of 250 in the high school department and 328 in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades that normally are enrolled at Cooke school.

The Bayside school has an increase from 785 to 912. Princess Anne Courthouse school gained four pupils, 278 this year as compared to 274 last year.

All other schools, with the exception of Creed high school and Oceana high school, showed increases. Oceana's decrease was the result of the transfer of many students to the Virginia Beach high school.

JAYCEES TO GET PAPER

The Virginia Beach Jaycees will start collecting scrap paper Sunday, September 28. As in the past, they will be around the last Sunday in each month through the month of June.

The Jaycees request that anyone wishing to get rid of their scrap papers, please bundle and tie them and leave them at the club.

The proceeds from the sale of paper will be used in the ensuing year for welfare projects of the organization.

If the drive has to be postponed due to inclement weather, it will be held the following Sunday, October 5th.

Supervisors Hold Busy Session

Despite the protests of 31 petitioners, the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors approved a permit for a trailer camp on Willard Road near the Shore Drive.

The petitioners objected to issuance of a permit to S. D. Abernathy on the ground that 10 such trailer camps already existed in that East Ocean View area. The Board took the stand that the permit should be granted since it was in an area set aside for such operations.

The recently formed planning commission set up the area for trailer camps and since that time 35 permits have been rejected with the hope that future trailer camps could be concentrated in the area so designated.

Melvin O. Anderson, of Lawson Road, also received a trailer park permit after the supervisors had disapproved his request in August and the Planning Commission had reconsidered his application.

The Board heard a request that the application of N. C. Baker for a trailer camp on Oak Road near the Military Highway be reconsidered as a hardship case.

Baker explained that the previous owner of the property held a trailer permit, which he hoped to exercise. He said he had invested $8,000 for trailer camp operation.

The trailer camp application of Oscar V. Ewell, of East Ocean View, was turned down on the ground that he promised to open.

Fashion Notables Choose Ten Best Dressed Ladies of Tidewater Virginia

Tidewater's ten best dressed women were presented to a capacity audience in the Norfolk City Auditorium Monday night and six Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County ladies were among those selected.

Mrs. Bess Myerson, Miss America of 1945 and star of the television show, "The Bess Myerson Show," presented the awards to the following ladies: Mrs. Joseph F. Bentley, Mrs. Fred A. Haycox, Mrs. Sidney S. Kellom, Mrs. George T. McLean and Mrs. Harry Price, Jr., all of Virginia Beach; Mrs. A. T. Taylor, of Princess Anne County; Mrs. Olin Garrett, Mrs. Richard D. Heimer and Mrs. A. Putnam Storr, of Norfolk; and Mrs. William Fitzgerald, of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Haycox and Mrs. Heimer were named best-dressed for Tidewater at the 1951 Fall Fashion Review.

Proceeds from the show go to the St. Mary's Infant Home, the Norfolk Catholic home for orphaned children. Naming of the ten best dressed women served as a climax to a two-hour fashion show directed by Mildred Alexander, women's director of Radio Station WGH, in cooperation with 14 leading Tidewater department stores and specialty shops.

Corrine Calvert, the movie actress, was presented with her husband, John Bromfield. Mrs. Calvert spoke in behalf of the Infant Home.

The fall and winter fashion parade was interrupted by a wedding scene featuring a $1,000 wedding gown and the showing of a $100,000 pearl dress, modeled by Helen Berg, New York Powers model.

Doris Day, fur designer, modeled and acted as commentator for a special fur collection. Mrs. Alexander, mistress of ceremonies for the third straight year, was introduced by Yvonne Nicholson.

Mrs. Kellom was a stunning dress of black silk Baranese trimmed with red and silver braids. Mrs. Haycox was charming in a lavender dress with iridescent taffeta sequins.

Mrs. Taylor's gown was a blue satin dress trimmed in Hunter green. Mrs. Bentley wore a brown lace dress and a milk stool. Mrs. Price's dress was of rich red taffeta and Mrs. McLean's ensemble consisted of a pale blue satin dress with buttons at the neckline.

Hats made by such designers as Northridge, John Fredericks, Walter Floer, Lily Dache, Sally Vinton, and Emmy and commented on by Babe Viethaus, assistant director of the Millinery Fashion Bureau, drew applause.

Designers represented in the show were Cecil Chapman, Jacques Fath, Vera Maxwell, Anne Fogarty, winner of the 1952 Neiman-Marcus fashion award (to the most outstanding designer), and the 1952 Coty award; Olga Cassini, Wraggi and Chad Armstrong.

Among the models were Mrs. J. C. Aspinwall, Jr., Mrs. Clarence O. Bell, Mrs. Suzanne Jack Bell, Mrs. John O. Bracken, Mrs. Grace Brett, Mrs. William J. Cadman, Mrs. Joseph M. Commander, Jr., Miss Mary Doble Driver, Mrs. Leroy W. Davis, Mrs. A. Egerton, Mrs. G. Lee, Mrs. Luffler B. Marshall, Jr., Mrs. J. Bernard Parker, Jr., Mrs. Charles F. Reilly, Jr., Mrs. Thomas N. Spensard, Mrs. Samuel Smith, Mrs. Richard Wood, Mrs. Betty Norris and Mrs. Grace Suletan.

Barbara Carol Wayne, who will be five years old next New Year's Day, did not accompany her parents to the beach. She is visiting her maternal grandmother in Connecticut, with her nurse, while her parents vacation here.

In getting a tape-recorded interview with Bess, she expressed great interest in the Norfolk Feldman Chamber Music Society. She is an accomplished pianist, having studied piano for 15 years and has given many concerts with top orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic.

"I really do feel that more should be done for the fine and talented musicians in America. I meet so many young men, working behind counters and bars, struggling along for a chance to express their musical abilities. It's really sad. I hope some day that something really big will be done about this deplorable situation. There are not enough groups like the Feldman group operating in small communities. They are to be congratulated for their encouragement and fine efforts."

Bess met her husband in 1945, when she was crowned Miss America in Atlantic City. He was recuperating there from five years in the Pacific service. She married him as soon as her year was up to resign as Miss America and they sound very much to her interviewer as if they are truly "living happily ever after."

DR. E. STANLEY JONES VISITS BEACH, SPEAKS, NEXT FRIDAY

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, noted author, evangelist and missionary, will visit Virginia Beach on Friday, October 3 and will make several appearances before local church groups that day if his time permits.

Dr. Jones will visit Virginia Beach, he is being sponsored by the Protestant Travel Council.

Beginning October 10 and ending March 1, Leisure Vacation and Travel Season in Virginia will fire an unprecedented salvo of colorful and fascinating events designed to beguile the varied tastes and pocketbooks of her visitors during this period.

Harvest time in Virginia will see the Old Dominion burst forth in a kaleidoscope of color which annually puffs thousands to her magnificent Skyline Drive and Blue Ridge Parkway, miracles of highway engineering, overlooking valleys transformed into crazy quilts of brilliant hues.

Teeming with game of every description, including grouse, deer, wild turkeys, ducks and waterfowl, the Old Dominion offers this season the best opportunity for hunters in the past 15 years. Alerted officials of the National Forests are eager, willing and able to assist and advise the out-of-state hunter who wishes to take advantage of the hunting facilities open to the public in these forests.

Thousands of acres of ungranted marshland in two Eastern Shore counties will receive hunters that first thrilling encounter of the season with the vast migration of duck and waterfowl from Canada to that area.

Whether a bona fide fisherman or merely masquerading as such for an excuse to uncoil in the salty breeze, Virginia's great tidal rivers, bays and ocean outlets yield untold quantities of sea-bass and snappers in the fine fishing season ahead.

COUNCIL BACKS MURRAY IN SKIRMISH WITH BELL

PASSES RESOLUTION CONDEMNING C & C HEAD

The Virginia Beach City Council, in regular session Monday night, approved the recent action of Mayor P. F. Murray in withholding city advertising funds until proper certification of bills is made by the Chamber of Commerce. Approval by the Council was voiced in a resolution.

The funds in question total $16,700 and have been collected through special taxation and are designated for "advertising" in the city's budget. Included in the resolutions was condemnation of John H. Bell, president of the chamber, and "some of the directors" for "unfavorable publicity causing irreparable damage" to the city.

Bell was one of 14 signers of a petition seeking the dismissal of the Virginia Beach police chief and the sheriff of Princess Anne County on the alleged charge that they have failed to halt "widespread gambling and the illegal sale of whiskey" in the city and county.

The petition was filed on August 22, the day after the semi-annual celebration in Virginia Beach. Hearing of the case is scheduled for October 9.

Four councilmen endorsed the resolution Monday night, but the fifth, W. W. McManan, Jr., opposed the measure and termed them "very improper."

The resolution stated that "the council did not want to penalize the community by reason of the unseemly and unwarranted criticism of the president and some of the directors" of the Chamber of Commerce, it fully supported and endorsed the action of its mayor in this matter and directs the mayor to authorize the payment of any bill of the Chamber of Commerce for advertising now due when fully authorized by the proper authorities of the Chamber of Commerce; and that of procedure will continue to the present."

It is understood that Bell has refused to certify the advertising bills now owed by the Chamber of Commerce which total some $15,000. Bell declined Monday night to respond.

Local Gridders Shine in Face of Second Defeat

Although they suffered their second straight setback defeat, the Virginia Beach Seahawks football team flashed signs of improvement in their 34 to 0 loss to Great Bridge last Friday night.

The local charges of Coach Fred Isaacs gave every indication that before the season's end they will be a tough club. At least two Seahawks shone brilliantly in defeat. They were C. Scarborough and J. Merrill.

Great Bridge, with a weight advantage and experience, proved too much for the Virginia Beach team. The big difference was the Williams ace back, Archie Merrill, who literally tore the Virginia Beach forward wall to pieces.

Merrill scored four times against the Seahawks and opened his performance with an eight yard run in the first period. He later scored once in each of the three remaining quarters.

The Virginia Beach eleven was shutout in its debut performance by Churchland, Scarborough was a nuisance to the visitors on defense and heads constantly pointed the Great Bridge line.

The Seahawks meet Creeds High School on October 4 and enjoy an open date this week.

CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH

SHORT TAKES FROM CITY HALL

This week we want to devote this space to our new Virginia Beach High School, the facility and the activities which make up a full life for the student. The opening of such an educational plant is a great boon to any community, and the outstanding design of the building and its furnishings make it one of the most attractive and modern high schools in the country.

The fact that approximately 200 high school students are enrolled indicates the need that existed for such a plant. This fact coupled with the plan adopted this year that senior students should finish their high school work at the Oceana School. The Virginia Beach school is not offering senior class work this year, but beginning next September will offer complete high school courses.

Football and a rounded sports program go hand in hand with modern schooling and the fact that the Virginia Beach High School fielded a football team this year, its first year, is quite an achievement. And, the "Seahawks" naturally have no reason on the squad since there is no stadium class.

Coach Fred Isaacs' charges have played two games this season, one while having defeat in both contests have shown a fighting spirit that merits the support of every citizen of Virginia Beach. Coach Isaacs has taken the task of building a team single-handedly and the help and encouragement by good citizens at their games. We suggest that more of our people attend these games and indicate to the coach and players that Virginia Beach is really behind them.

It is possible that Coach Isaacs could use some help in his training duties. If anyone with football experience could spare the time it would be a great help to the young coach and coach to the young players. The coach is a young man, a graduate of the University of Virginia, and his name is Coach Isaacs.

Their next game is against Creeds High School on Thursday, October 2, at the Creeds High School.

PROCLAMATION

TO THE CITIZENS OF VIRGINIA BEACH:

By virtue of my office I hereby proclaim the week of September 28 - October 4, 1952, National Business Women's Week. I urge the citizens of our city to cooperate with the Business and Professional Women's Club of Princess Anne County in their plans to observe this week.

The theme for September 28 - October 4 (National Business Women's Week) will be "The Ramparts We Build." The women have shown us many times before their capabilities and "Pioneer Qualities" is not just something we would like to have, it is a quality we must all have if America is to continue as a great, free, and democratic country. The work of this organization—to help build an ever progressing, ever improving country, with both men and women doing their part, should have the support of all. During September 28 - October 4, let's all hold to "The Ramparts We Build" so thoroughly that it will carry forward all year and every year.

services for North Virginia Beach. The Council set a tax rate of $4.75 per $100 valuation for real estate, tangible personal property and public utilities for the calendar year, 1952.

It was explained that this rate will not be applicable for 1953, when a new assessment will go into effect. Virginia Beach assessments were doubled about two years ago and are to be doubled again next year, after which the rate will be $2.38 per $100.

Higher evaluation was necessary to raise the city's legal capacity for bonded debt, which is 10 per cent of the value of taxable property.

The Council received a report of receipts for the July special taxes, which totaled $29,462. The estimated yearly revenue from the taxes, which are imposed on hotels, meals, cigarettes, drinks and amusement admissions, is $230,000.

fore reaching a decision on any and all such donations, contributions or any other name given to this kind of passing out tax payers' money. These items, so often, benefit a small group and often take away money from needs that are much greater. If one of these matters comes to your body, each of you should ask himself, 'Is it worth the price?' or 'If I was asked to give this amount of money and if there was no pressure group, would I consider it wise to give this money?' So, gentlemen, please work together and with me in good spirit and true effort to save money whenever possible and to be helpful in spending any savings and all money in a way that it greatly improves this fine city, our home town, that we all should love so dearly, that we should all work hard to improve and make all of its citizens very happy and proud.

"I also urge you gentlemen to carefully study the work of city officials, employees and equipment. Again, say to yourselves, 'Would I keep him on my own payroll, or would I replace him with another with better ability or would I do away with the job that is held by this one and use this money for more productive work or greater needs?' It is my sincere hope that we can all develop a spirit in our city to cause all citizens to love it so dearly that they will work harmoniously together towards the end of having the best year-around city and summer-time resort anywhere in these good United States."

THIS WEEK IN OPS

The Office of Price Stabilization announces that it has limited major league baseball clubs to a maximum charge of 70¢ for the service of mailing World Series tickets.

This ruling says OPS, resulted from confusions between price officials and representatives of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick's office. The price agency says the 70¢ limit was set to allow for a hike from 30¢ to 50¢ in the basic postal rate to baseball clubs for registered mail.

Prior to this price ruling, according to an OPS spokesman, the Baseball Commissioner's office had announced tentative plans to increase mailing charges for tickets from 50¢ to $1.00, pending OPS determination of the exact allowable amount. Based on information furnished the Office of Price Stabilization by the Baseball Commissioner, the price agency allowed only the actual increase in mailing charges recently put into effect by the Post Office Department.

In reply to a number of inquiries as to whether merchants and other businessmen are required to charge OPS ceiling prices for goods and services offered the public, a spokesman for the price agency states, emphatically that a ceiling price established by OPS is merely a legal maximum that may be charged. OPS says this price official, makes no attempt to tell business or industry what it must charge, except that it cannot charge above established ceiling prices without violating laws passed by Congress.

The day will be climaxed with a mass meeting at the newly completed Baptist Church on 35th Street at 8 p.m. It is expected that Dr. Jones' topic for the mass meeting will be "United Church."

Slips in Type Reins Wedding Wreath

Just before press time, an employee slipped some type concerning two articles, one a story about a public sale, the other a wedding. The editor asked the printer to pick the type up and to re-proof it before placing it in the page form to be printed.

The printer obliged, but did not proof the finished story.

The editor, therefore, didn't know of the mix-up until an angry preacher and the bride's family appeared in the office in a very stormy mood. The article, as it appeared in the paper, read:

William Smith and Miss Lucy Anderson were depicted of public sale at my home one mile east, a beautiful cluster of roses on her shoulder and two white calves, before a background of farm implements and conveniences to mention in the presence of about 70 guests including two milk cows, six stags and one buggy.

"The Rev. Anderson said the wedding feast with 200 feet of green rope and the bride couple left on the four-wheeled Harvester going slow for an extended trip with views to suit purchasers."

CROWDED SCHOOLS

As a whole, United States schools this year had shortages of everything but pupils. Pupils were in classrooms—34,697,000 more than in 1951-52.

But the nation lacks 53,000 new classrooms and 52,600 new teachers, according to U. S. Commissioner of Education McGraw. And more than 1,410,000 children between the ages of 7 and 17 will not be regularly enrolled at all.

Dr. Howard A. Denson of the national educational association estimates that about a million children of 600,000 migrant families will not be in school.

School enrollment is expected to jump by another 1,400,000 by the autumn of 1953. 200,000 more by 1954; 700,000 more by 1955. The rapid growth enrollment will aggravate the shortages of teachers and of classrooms.

The nation now has 25,484 high schools and 146,400 elementary schools — including 75,096 one-teacher rural schools. School expenditures for 1951-52 rose to $6,484,000. But this nation is spending less than 2.5 per cent of its total income today for schools, as against about 3.2 per cent in 1930.

Expenditures for public school systems in all towns of more than 2,500 dropped 36 (in purchasing power dollars) per pupil in 1950-51. Per-pupil costs ranged from $44 to $425 with the national average at $223. Commissioner McGraw warns, "We cannot afford a further reduction in education standards."

None of this, when given full analysis, provides aid. The failure to provide any argument for federal aid. The failure to provide educational facilities is a local one throughout the nation as a whole.

WELCOME TO NEW GENERATIONS

Population growth is like the weather—there doesn't seem to be much that anybody can do about it.

The world's human population is soaring. There were fewer than one and three-quarter billion people on earth in 1912. Today there are nearly two and a half billion, and by the end of this century there will probably be over four billion. The world is currently adding to its population at the rate of 60,000 to 70,000 new human beings each day, and the rate is increasing. No expert is needed to tell us that, so far as the foreseeable future is concerned, feeding, clothing, and keeping so many reasonably happy is going to be a problem. Our own country has shown how it can best be met.

A century or more ago a large percentage of people labored in agriculture. If theoretical planners had stepped in in those days and forced the productive processes into a fixed "orderly" pattern we would probably have been struggling with famine by now. Fortunately we were free to invent, devise and scheme new ways. We were free to leave our farms and get jobs in the cities where some of us figured out unheard-of machines to do the work of ten men on the farm. Tractors, trucks, reapers, combines, ganglovers, cultivators—implements began to roll off the assembly lines by the tens of thousands. American agriculture took on a new look. For the first time in history farmers could raise their heads above sheer drudgery.

Farming has become a scientific, competitive business. Because of the machines, constantly better farming practices and rising production are inevitable. Upland flood control, contour or strip farming, and soil conservation are routine practices to the modern farmer.

This American agricultural revolution is our welcome to the new people who will be crowding onto this old globe in the years to come. Other nations that fear the way of free markets, open competition and a maximum of individual liberty, will do well to heed our example.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

There are two great principles which are derived from religion, the two pillars on which rest American freedom; the sovereignty of God in the stream of history and the sacredness of the individual. . . . And right here it becomes pertinent to repeat the old biblical admonition: "Remove not the ancient landmarks, which thy fathers have set."—Alma, Michigan, Journal.

When the average American's income begins to shrink he looks for a way to cut expenses. But not so in Washington. Every time Congress suggests a small appropriation for any purpose, a bureaucratic howl rises. "Tax and Spend" is still a popular song on the Potomac.—Mebane, N. C. Enterprise.

"We advocate an immediate and drastic reduction of government expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of the Federal government." To refresh your memory, that was a plan in the Democratic platform just 30 years ago when FDR was nominated for his first term as President.—Brownsville, Pa. Telegraph.

Patrick Henry said: "Give me liberty or give me death." The Democrats now just say "Gimme."—Logan, Kansas, Republican.

Never in the history of a nation has prosperity been substituted for liberty and so wastefully. A false prosperity does exist, but it is built on pillars of sand and no sound economic development. It is bred of inflation and two decades of phenomenal government spending.—Greenville, Ill. Advocate.

DALE CARNEGIE

HOW TO REFUSE WORRY

Jack W. Brown, Cincinnati, Ohio, says he has found that worry can always be routed if you will keep physically active all the time.

His lot was once with the Philippine guerrillas and worry could easily have been the password. As he crawled and wiggled across the beach the first night every tree branch or piece of driftwood appeared as a Japanese sentry. Every sound, he was sure, would be followed by a Japanese machine gun blast. Despite his fears, he managed to cross the beach and get well hidden in the brush beyond. There he had a talk with himself. He decided that worrying wasn't going to improve the situation. He could spend valuable time worrying about whether he would get out alive, get malaria, whether this or that, but none of this was going to solve the problem at hand. So the obvious answer was to get busy and forget worries and fears. During the four months that followed he found that none of "his boys" were worrying. They were too busy harassing the enemy to have time for anything like worry. They were, for the most part, volunteer fighters with no formal training and, to the man, they wanted to be trained soldiers as well. He had had extensive training as a naval aviator, in military drill and procedures, so they organized and trained. During spare time he taught them the fundamentals of football. Between these activities and some night work against the Japs they were busy all the time. Looking back now he says he can honestly say that after the first night he never gave a thought to those little fears and worries that could easily have finished him in the Islands. He was much too busy to worry.

A blow has been struck for progress in a field that has been strangely neglected — spaghetti eating.

An inventor has designed a fork with a wheel in the handle. Rotation of the wheel sets the prongs of the fork turning. The turning prongs bring the elusive strands of spaghetti under control so they can be lifted to the mouth without squirming or other protest. Although about the only usefulness that can be found in the flood of gadgets that hit the market is that they wash away the buyers' unanchored coins. I'm going to bite on this one when it goes on sale — in fact, I hope to bite spaghetti on it.

I hope it works. If it proves not only an erosion on the pocketbook for the benefit of impoverished inventors but also an aid in eating the elongated dough, I shall have pens of praise for the inventor. Too long have our geniuses piddled away their time on atomic fission, jet engines and wonder drugs. Too long has spaghetti eating been left out of the machine age.

I repeat: I hope the rotating spaghetti fork works. I don't resent it that about the time I had mastered the difficult art of eating spaghetti after years of waiting, along comes a product of the heartless mechanized age and transforms the art into a mere turning of a wheel. Now I can expend more time and effort on dinner-time conversation, a convivial pastime impossible with consuming spaghetti the old-fashioned way.

I shall miss the magnificent gestures and flourishes of arm and elbow which the confident consumer of the dish affected to notify all other occupants of the dining room that he was a master. But I shall escape the flying red sauce and the sticky vermiform particles falling on my clothing — always the perils of sitting too near a novice spaghetti eater.

Let's be maudlin and say that for every deprivation there is always an equal and just compensation. It'll help us accept a mechanical spaghetti fork.

John Alden was the first trained English woodworker to come to America.

The rolling section of a roll-top desk is called the tambour.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

Drive it off the place, eh? . . . Well, that beats the last two offers I had.

From the Douglas County Gazette, Waterloo, Neb.: "Honest George" is the salutation used by the Chamber of Commerce Secretary "Red" Motter whenever directing personal letters to yours truly, the editor. Right after he has elected as one of the county commissioners "Red" was down to Valley trying to sell something or other for the community he represents and after his talk we had a little visit with "Red" asking: "Well, George, now that you are commissioner, what do the people call you?"

And my answer was simply: "What the people call me depends a lot upon the time of the year, together with the weather." He looked puzzled: "It does."

Remember . . .

From S. I. McGinnis, Colleton, West Virginia:

I remember when my parents stored 50-gallon barrels of pickle beans, sauer kraut, and sorghum molasses in our smoke house every fall.

From Mrs. Grace DeHill, Marysville, Wash.:

I remember when my grandmother took all the dishes and other glassware that was broken in the household out to the chicken yard, where she put them on a flat rock and pulverized them with an old hammer so the hens would have grit.

From Mrs. Frank Johnson, Fayetteville, Ark.:

I remember when we made hats out of corn shucks. We didn't have screen doors at that time, and when we went to eat, we children had to keep the flies away with back bats.

From Amelia Decker, Denver, Colo.:

I remember when we cooked apple butter in large quantities outdoors in big iron kettles and everybody took turns stirring the apple butter while it was cooking.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, West Virginia:

I remember when young men showed off by jumping off the streetcar before it came to a stop.

How come?" "Well, 'Red,' it's very simple. If we've had a lot of rain in the spring and people are getting stuck all over the county, they call me a lot of things. Or, if it's during the winter months and the snow of the night before isn't cleared off the roads some time during the following day, again the names aren't so nice. But, if the sun is shining, the birds are singing, the bees are buzzing, and the roads are a little bit on the dusty side, it's 'Honest George.'"

From the Oak Harbor (Wash.) News: As far as this particular community is concerned, it would be logical to ask candidates to pledge themselves for a balanced budget. During the past few years we have collected thousands and thousands of dollars in federal money. We've got a new school paid for by federal money. We've sold thousands of dollars worth of goods to servicemen who bought with federal dollars.

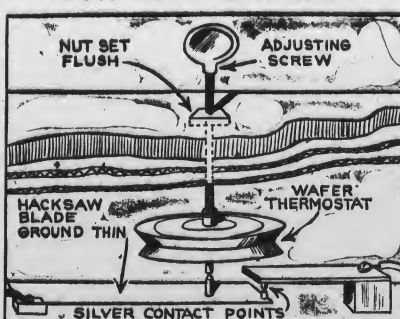

Not only have we already collected from federal spending, there are those who wish more and yet more. Like a hog in a trough, they never get enough. Now it's time for us to decide what we want in candidates. Do we want candidates who pledge themselves to help balance the budget? Or do we want candidates who say they'll work for the region's worthy projects. We must make up our minds. We can't have both. And beware of candidates who pledge both. They're either dishonest or ignorant.

From the Seville (Ohio) Chronicle: If Leonard Huffman waded around town looking as if he were a good place these days, don't sneer at him, because he's lost and you're wrong.

Leonard lost his wallet, containing $22 and all the other assorted cards and papers that make up our minds. He can't find it. But in the morning mail, arrived after he had gone to work, was the wallet, complete with money, and a note, "From a friend."

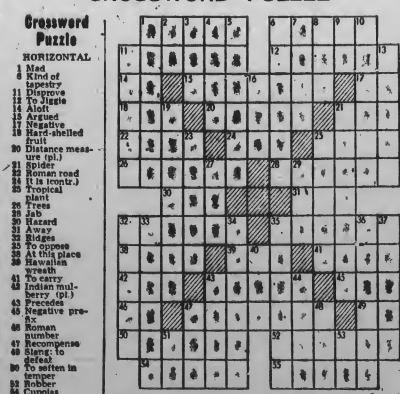

A good friend, apparently.

Principal speaker for the program will be Capt. W. S. Bates, C.O., U.S. Navy Air Station, Oceana, who will speak on "Requirements of Citizenship." He will be introduced by Judge Floyd Kellum.

Many Visit New Swift Facility

Over 10,000 people from Tidewater Virginia and nearby areas attended the formal opening of Swift & Company's new branch house in Norfolk on September 22. The crowd is reported to be one of the largest ever to attend the opening of such a plant in this area.

Throughout Sunday afternoon the crowds toured the new plant. They watched some of its operations, inspected dozens of displays and sampled its food. G. R. Crawford, branch house manager, said that he served over 3,200 pieces of fried chicken, 900 pounds of roast beef and 9,000 frankfurters. Bread, potato chips, cakes and coffee completed the menu.

Along with the many displays and exhibits, the housewarming included games with prizes for the winners and a long list of door prizes. Among these were such items as an electric record player, deep fat fryer, ironing board and a goldfish. The new building, covering 51,000 square feet, serves Tidewater Virginia, the eastern part of North Carolina and the Eastern Shore of Virginia. In addition to its freezer and cold storage.

Families in U. S. Are Now Widely Annuity-Minded

A generation ago, relatively few annuities and retirement insurance plans were being purchased in the United States and a large part of those outstanding at that time were on the lives of European living in Europe.

Today, more than 6,000,000 annuities, retirement income life insurance policies or insured persons are now in force in the U. S., representing over $1,000,000,000 in assets.

The annuity idea is not new in this country, the Institute of Life Insurance says. The first policy written in 1759 in the first U. S. life insurance company was an annuity.

But America became definitely annuity conscious in the early Thirties. Stimulated by the object lessons of the depression, large numbers of persons immediately set up insured retirement plans. Between 1930 and 1935, the premiums paid into annuities showed increased five-fold, even though it was a period of sharply reduced consumer income.

Tri-County Fair At PA Speedway October 1-11

The Tri-County Fair opens at Princess Anne Speedway October 1 with a host of beauty queens on hand for the cutting of the ribbon at the fair ground entrance. Miss Virginia—Miss Edna Long, of Richmond—is expected to be among those present. The fair is the first of the Tri-County Fair Association, Inc., sponsored by the Kempville Ruritan Club.

It includes Norfolk and Princess Anne counties, and, although it has no geographical connection, Warwick County. Samuel Burdett, secretary of the fair association, explained it this way: "We want to show the people in Warwick what we in Norfolk have and what we are doing in Norfolk and Princess Anne counties and we want people here to see what they are doing in their county."

Six big tents will house the exhibits, including the largest farm machinery display in this section of the State. One tent will be filled with autos, both American and foreign. The world's largest house trailer will be on display with scores of other commercial exhibits.

Premiums worth $3,500 will be awarded to winners of entries in horticulture, agriculture, domestic arts, home demonstration, art, needlework, poultry, cattle, photography and painting.

Grand opening of the fair, which will run through October 11, is set for 7 p. m. Invitations have been extended to high State officials, mayors of area communities and 16 beauty queens. High school bands from Creeds, Kempville and Oceana will be on hand for the opening.

Invited to attend besides Miss Virginia are Miss Jeannine Ward, Messick; Kathleen Christian, Newport News; Miss Ellen Hockaday, Warwick; Miss Mary Kay Tankard (Miss Cape Charles); Miss Peggy J. Harrison (Miss Northampton County); Miss Audrey Powell, Halifax; Miss Anne Vance, Virginia Beach; Miss Eleanor Clark (Miss Accomack); Miss Betty A. Rue, Empress; Miss Shirley Byrner, Hampton; Miss Emilee Doub, Onancock; Miss Charlotte Cooley, South Norfolk; Miss Barbara A. Winfield (Miss Norfolk); Miss Faye Winfield, Norfolk; and Miss Elizabeth Crockett (Miss Roanoke).

Free exhibit space on the grounds has been offered churches, civic, patriotic and fraternal groups. All available space for commercial exhibits has been sold for two weeks, Burdett said.

In addition to the six tents on display, the George Clyde Smith Shows with 10 rides will be on the grounds. Fireworks are scheduled each night. Under-privileged

Careful Choice Urged By VA In GI Training

Veterans planning to train under the Korean GI Bill should give careful thought to their choice of a training program. For under the law they will be allowed to change their course no more than once. Veterans Administration said.

The purpose of the new GI education and training program is to help a veteran reach a definite, identified goal. The goal may be purely educational such as obtaining a college degree; professional, such as becoming a doctor or vocational such as training to be a carpenter.

Before a post-Korean veteran even applies for training under the new GI Bill, he should have clearly in mind just what his goal in life might be, VA advised. His training can serve as an invaluable means toward arriving at that goal.

Veterans who are not sure about their goal, or about the type of training needed to reach it, would do well to talk over their problems with educators, businessmen, professional people or any other persons in a position to offer constructive advice.

Or, if they wish, they may apply to the VA for advice and guidance, consisting of tests and thorough interviews given by trained vocational counselors.

If a veteran makes his single change of course before his deadline for starting training under the new GI Bill, he will not need VA's approval. However, if his progress was unsatisfactory, he will have to show VA that it was not because of his own misconduct, neglect or lack of application.

If he wants to change courses after his deadline—and he has never made a change before—he will need VA's approval. This may be granted, under the law, if VA finds that (1) he has not been making satisfactory progress in his present program through no fault of his own, and the program he wants to change to is more in keeping with his aptitudes and previous training, or (2) the program to which he wants to change is a normal progression from his present program.

children of the area will be entertained free of charge one day by the fair association.
